TRAMONTINA trans forms

Production forests are transformed into sustainable products. Wood waste is transformed into energy. Rainwater is harvested and transformed into drinking water. Sunlight is transformed into clean energy.

Tramontina transforms families, communities and realities. Tramontina also transforms raw materials, waste and resources. And does what's best today to transform tomorrow.

TRAMONTINA

Tramontina believes that things made with love are special. This is why when creating our products, we take into consideration what people feel when they create something with their own hands.

This philosophy started with Valentin Tramontina over 112 years ago, and it is still the company's philosophy today. It is also a philosophy that is equally valued by the makers of these beautiful products – the 10,000 Tramontina employees across 16 established offices around the world.

Consumers have access to over 22,000 Tramontina products, from kitchen utensils and equipment to timber and plastic furniture. In both production and distribution, Tramontina focuses heavily on innovation, research and development to help fulfil its clients' requirements, while also working towards sustainable solutions for the environment.

TRAMONTINA

PROFESSIONAL MASTER

► WHAT MAKES TRAMONTINA'S PRODUCTS SO SPECIAL ?

TECHNOLOGY

Tramontina's modern production methods, finishes, capacity for innovation and design are constantly being adapted to the requirements of its clients. Tramontina is technologically equipped to face the challenges of the future and to develop product ranges aimed at increasingly improving the lives of its consumers.

ISO 9001 2008

Like all Tramontina products, the cutlery range has been developed to high quality standards. This work has resulted in another great success: Iso 9001:2008 certification.

THE RANGE

Tramontina has used all this technology to develop the Professional Master range as an evolution of its professional products. Tramontina listened to professionals from the meat packing industry, in order to meet all their requirements. The Professional Master product range guarantees the comfort and safety that these professionals are looking for, conforming to quality specifications and using materials that undergo the strictest testing for strength and durability.

HANDLE INJECTION

- Blades are given polypropylene (PP) handles.
- Microban® antimicrobial treatment is added to the polypropylene.
- To prevent the formation of gaps between the parts, where waste might gather the handle is injected directly onto the tang of the blade.
- Handles are produced to facilitate knife cleaning and hygiene inside the packing houses and conforming to health-inspection requirements.

HEAT TREATMENT

Ensures the proper resistance to edge wear is achieved, it changes the steel structure to increase blade strength and hardness. The process is completely controlled with temperature and hardness gauges and by analysing the internal structure of the steel with a microscope. It is divided into three stages:

TEMPERING	SUBZERO	HARDENING
• Blades are heated to temperatures of over 1000°C, then quickly cooled. • The stainless steel blade becomes hard and resistant to wear but with low resistance to impact and flexing. • At this stage the structure of the stainless steel still needs improvement because some parts are still not completely hardened.	• Improvements to the structure occur after freezing the blades at a temperature well below 0°. • The blades are frozen to give the stainless steel excellent stability and resistance to wear.	• Solves the problem of low impact and flex resistance mentioned in the TEMPERING stage. • The blades are heated to temperatures above 300°C, leaving the items with hardness levels of between 55 and 58 HRC. • Blades display excellent resistance to wear, impact and flexing. • Steel tensions generated in the earlier stages are removed.

MACHINING

After heat treatment the blades are machined in five different operations:

- Profile trimming: improving the blade-profile finish.
- Face trimming: producing angles on the blade faces.
- Satin finish of faces: final finish to blade faces.
- Grinding of rough edges: "rounding rough edges" of profile opposite edge.
- Sharpening: producing the edge.

CERTIFICATIONS

Tramontina obtained NSF (National Sanitation Foundation) certification, the recognition of Tramontina's Professional Knife range by an independent and international organisation, showing the suitable conditions for producing professional knives for the meat packing industry, and that its technologies conform to international quality standards.

As the knives are used for various types of meat, it is essential that these assessments are carried out by specialist professionals, so that product quality and materials used can be verified.
