FML Pro is an Advanced microblend of nutrients specifically designed to support the female endocrine system. This powerful but gentle adaptogenic formula is made with homeopathic remedies that can help in managing the stress response, balancing hormones, and increasing stamina.

FML Pro contains only safe and effective natural ingredients known for their benefits in supporting the female body. The homeopathic components can help to stimulate the body's own production of estrogen and progesterone naturally and help alleviate symptoms associated with hormonal imbalances. It also supports both glandular and hormonal components to promote normal daily function and healthy mood.

FML Pro is nutritional support for healthy:

Hormone Function | Reproductive Function | Adrenals | Stress Management | Energy

This unique formula can help busy women feel like themselves again - naturally, and without side effects. By working with normal bodily functions, FML Pro helps women of all ages get through the day.

FML Pro helps women to live life to the full by:

- Supporting hormonal balance
- Nourishing the adrenal glands
- Keeping cholesterol levels under control
- Protecting bone health
- Supporting healthy cognitive function
- Helping to balance mood
- Building and strengthening vital force
- Restoring harmony and balance to the endocrine system
- Improving the body's ability to adapt to physical and psychological stress
- Promoting healthy sleep patterns

Homeopathy works on the principle of "like cures like". By using a diluted dose of the hormones that are out of balance alongside nutrients and botanicals to support the adrenals, FML Pro can help to strengthen and support the female endocrine system.

Estrogen and progesterone are responsible for healthy sexual and reproductive function, stimulating the menstrual cycle and supporting healthy mood. Potentized estrogen has been found to be significantly more effective than a placebo for reducing pelvic pain caused by endometriosis. Homeopathic medicines have also been found to be helpful in regulating the menstrual cycle along with reducing cysts and associated symptoms of Polycystic Ovarian Syndrome (PCOS).

The adrenal glands play an important role in the body's response to a variety of stressors, such as work, relationships, family, poor diet, lack of exercise, and toxins in our food or the air we breathe. Adaptogens such as those in FML Pro help to promote healthy adrenal function during times of stress and anxiety.

The adrenals work alongside the hypothalamus and pituitary gland to produce cortisol and other hormones required for healthy stress response, providing resilience and energy. The thymus also plays an important part both in the immune system and endocrine system.

FML Pro is ideal for women seeking non-pharmacological solutions for optimizing daily function. It's a safe, low dose means of encouraging biological adaptive and amplification mechanisms of the endocrine system.
