Immu Pro

Globally, the human immune system is now being challenged more than ever before. With the pandemic still threatening our health, any form of immune infection is a cause for concern.

Quick fixes are no longer the answer. Instead, ongoing holistic support is necessary to protect the body from the threat of bacteria, viruses, pollutants, and other ills.

Immu Pro has been designed to support and strengthen every aspect of the immune system, from the very origin of immune cells themselves. This comprehensive formula assists general immune function and white blood cell regeneration while modulating natural defenses.

What is Immu Pro?

Immu Pro is an all-natural formula made with homeopathic remedies specifically indicated for immune system function. Immu Pro works to stimulate the components of the immune system using nature's most potent substances.

It also provides powerful antioxidant support and assists with natural energy production.

Homeopathy continues to be the most frequent complementary and alternative medical therapy in Europe, and it has many promising benefits for the rest of the world

Benefits

Supports adrenal function

Immu Pro contains the homeopathic remedy Adrenal to support adrenal gland function. Immune cells of the adrenal glands play an important role in immune function by sensing pathogens, removing apoptotic cells, and promoting tissue repair via secretion of important growth factors.

Stimulates white blood cells

Immu Pro also provides the unique Granulocyte colony-stimulating factor \(G-CSF\), a blood growth factor that stimulates bone marrow tissue to produce neutrophils, the infection-fighting white blood cells. G-CSF promotes cell maturation and activation and supports the activity of white blood cells along with neutrophils.

By nourishing the bone marrow, the ingredients in Immu Pro also help to enhance production of white and red blood cells (erythrocytes).

Strengthens natural defenses

Interferon-gamma is an immunomodulator in the form of an encoded protein. It is secreted by cells of both the innate and adaptive immune systems and binds to the interferon-gamma receptor, which sets off a cellular response to viruses and microbes.

Peyer's patches are a type of lymphoid tissue that plays a significant role in preventing the growth of pathogens in the intestines. In traditional European biological medicine, the homeopathic form of Peyer's Patches is also used to treat inflammatory symptoms caused by immune challenges.

Protects against oxidative stress

Vitamin C not only supports various cellular functions of both the innate and adaptive immune systems but is a potent antioxidant. It enhances the body's response to reactive oxygen species as well as microbes. Vitamin C strengthens epithelial barrier function against pathogens and promotes the oxidant scavenging activity of the skin, offering effective protection against environmental oxidative stress.

Alternative immune support

Homeopathy is a therapy using specific substances providing effects that correspond to the symptoms of an illness. This is based on the 'like cures like' principle.

Studies show that patients were significantly more satisfied with homeopathic care than allopathic. Homeopathic treatments were perceived as low-risk therapy with two to three times fewer side effects than conventional care.

Studies in mice have demonstrated that complex homeopathic medications are effective in activating macrophages, increasing leukocytes, and improving the response to certain diseases. A Brazilian study demonstrated that one such homeopathic formula indirectly activated lymphocytes and enhanced overall immune function, offering a potential alternative to pharmaceutical medication.
