

Upholstery

Our textiles are made from natural, sustainable fibers, providing an earthen feel. Handwoven and dyed with non-toxic materials, our high-quality fabrics may have slight color variations from sample swatches to finished products. These variations add character and enhance the uniqueness of each made-to-order piece. Please note that an exact color match to swatch samples cannot be guaranteed.

To preserve the longevity of your made-to-order pieces we recommend professional dry cleaning or spot treatment only. Machine washing is not recommended and may compromise the look and feel of upholstery over time.

For added protection, you may consider applying Scotch Guard to your upholstery. While we do not treat our fabrics in house, this can be done at home or through a third party professional. We advise testing the protectant on a fabric swatch beforehand to ensure satisfaction, as the treatment may alter the look and feel of the fabric.

Wood

Each handcrafted wood piece is unique due to the nature of reclaimed wood. Expect variations in patina, age, and color, as no two wood planks are the same. Natural variations in the finish are normal and add to the charm of our handmade furniture. While our materials are kiln-dried, thick-cut wood may continue to dry over time. In certain climates with significant fluctuations in temperature and moisture, you may observe slight cracking in the wood as the seasons change.

To maintain, wipe the surfaces daily with a damp cloth, following the wood grain. Dry any remaining moisture immediately to prevent stains or rings. Please avoid leaving liquid on the table for an extended period. Only use water and a lint-free cloth for cleaning; household cleaners are not recommended.

For waxed finishes, particularly darker colors, minor rubbing off may occur. To restore the wood's luster, apply a new coat of wax once or twice a year. Use a lint-free cloth to apply the wax, removing any excess.
