WHAT'S ON THE HORIZON?

Sometime before and shortly after releasing Infinity, poetry became my primary focus. And for a while, I couldn't seem to shake the writing bug. In fact, I filed copyright claims for 20 poems between September and December of 2022. A couple of my favorites are, "The Sweethearts Are Alive" and "The Land of Birds." Since I'm a few months overdue for Greeting Card Chronicles, on the horizon, are plans to squeeze in "Butterfly Dreams" in the next episode, as well as "Summers Gone By," an ode to childhood summer memories from the neighborhood where I spent most of my youth. In this way, they will be delivered as they are intended to come across, and in their entirety. Stay tuned!

NATIONAL POETRY MONTH

Inspiring creativity is one of our missions. And we have tried to do this over the years with a variety of showcases and contests. But it's also been a while since we've hosted such, and I am hoping we can get back to this. "Crafts and Laughs" was our last event in March 2022, where we featured and celebrated women who enjoy making things with their hands, for Women's History Month. This April, I would love to celebrate National Poetry Month in some small way. Hearing and reading poetry from those who tell me, "I'm not a poet," brings me lots of joy, especially to be part of their coming out party. Currently, I'm pondering a way to bring some of these individuals (or some of their work) to the forefront, and a few others as well. Let's celebrate together!

There's Still Time

Love Notes

"The artwork is so gracefully crafted. Your poetry speaks volumes about a person's inner most thoughts and heart felt moments. What you do is speak to the soul through your art and poetry. I am really happy with this line and will be back for more."

~ A. Dorsey, GA

"Received my Beautiful Original Infinity Cards in the mail. Dee Kay, your work is Phenomenal... You can FEEL the emotion!"

~ E. Trimble, NV
