{ SCANDINAVIAN STYLE }

H&M HOME Fans may love H&M for its hypertrendy clothing, but its new tabletop collection focuses on timeless Scandinavian design instead: Think clean lines, muted colors, and wood accents. Meant to make layering a table effortless, bowls and plates come in gray, white, and black matte porcelain ($3-$4) and mix seamlessly with wooden ones ($9) in three stains.

WALLSHOPPE

This Los Angeles-based purveyor of bright and cheery wallpapers teamed up with accessories designer Clare Vivier for a collection of hand-drawn prints, including Hollyhock (above). Available in 11 colorways, it was inspired by a sea of the towering flowers she saw growing wild while on vacation. "It's peaceful for a bedroom but also wonderful for a social setting, like a dining room," Vivier says. Eight additional patterns share the same playful spirit as the handbags and accessories she's known for. HOLLYHOCK Removable panel (27"x54") $58; roll $136; wallshoppe.com

BUNNY WILLIAMS

This top interior designer is known for creating rooms you'll want to linger in. Now turning her attention to the details, she wants to pretty-up your desk, too. "Having your everyday items in beautiful containers elevates the mundane," she says. Her new line of desktop accessories includes paper-covered notebooks, storage boxes, pencil cups, and nesting trays (left, $45/set of three). bunnywilliamshome.com ■
