

Industry Leader CleanAir.ai is Providing High IAQ to Commercial Sectors—Explore Our July Updates!

Changing the IAQ of spaces around the world isn't easy, but with the right strategy, we can make the change. Our team is excited to celebrate these updates with you!

A Debut in Hotelier Magazine

We are proud to announce CleanAir as a Service™, a new model for the hotel industry. Hotels around the world are now adopting the ALVI CleanAir Safety System™, which is designed to integrate directly into HVAC systems and offer incredible, affordable air quality while saving energy. Eliminating 99.99% of bacteria, airborne, viruses, pollen, and mold can help hotels keep their guests safe and comfortable.

Hotelier is one of the largest publications associated with the hotel industry, and CleanAir.ai has officially captured their attention! These experts shared how we are using technology solutions to enhance the hotel-guest experience by eliminating dangerous disease-causing microorganisms and unpleasant odors alike.

We are proud to share our technology solutions with industry leaders in hospitality who are looking to go the extra mile for their guests—and we look forward to delivering high-quality air in every room!

New Seed Funding from Sustainable Development Technology Canada (SDTC)

As one of the most promising new companies in Canada, CleanAir.ai was one of the few companies to receive funding from SDTC. The companies that were selected are developing new technologies that will fight climate change, contribute to the circular economy and promote the well-being of people within their communities with the natural environment. This is a significant step towards reaching our goals of delivering accessible, safe, high-quality indoor air around the world.

CleanAir.ai's Keynote Highlights from Global Prop Tech Online

Our CEO was welcomed to participate in Global Prop Tech Online's Future of Residential Real Estate seminar. CleanAir.ai representatives spoke out about key issues facing the real estate market and how powerful technology can be used to meet key needs.

The CleanAir Safety System™ can be offered as a turnkey solution for multifamily developers and property managers. With this change, residents and guests can trust in the quality of the air and avoid the unpleasant side effects that are commonly associated with low IAQ. Keeping residents safe, comfortable, and happy in their homes is a top focus among real estate industry experts and CleanAir.ai alike.

An All-New Website

We are excited to announce that our new website is coming soon. Available at www.cleanair.ai, you can learn more about the services and solutions that we are offering companies and individuals in key industries like hospitality, medical, aviation—and more! This interactive website will help you understand your options and what a difference high IAQ can make. Stay tuned!