NATURAL NON-NANO FACE PAINT

BEND, OREGON—July 14, 2014 —In response to consumer demand, Glob, the leading producer of eco-friendly art supplies specializing in craft paints and dyes made from fruits and veggies, launches the first line of natural, non-nano Face Paint available on the market today.

The natural, non-nano Face Paint made with botanical extracts, natural colors, such as beetroot and turmeric, and organic ingredients, is now available in retailers like Whole Foods and KiwiShoponline.com across the nation for a suggested retail price of $16.

The cruelty-free, natural face paint does not contain titanium dioxide, synthetic dyes, petro-chemicals, or phthalates and is paraben and talc-free.

Glob's natural face paints are made in America and contain a five color palette complete with a bamboo applicator, sold in sustainable packaging.

“We continue to hear from our customers that they want a safe, all natural alternative to the synthetic face paints available today,” said Glob Founder Ashley Phelps, who worked closely to formulate the non-nano, natural face paints.

“Like all of our products, the face paint is natural and free from artificial dyes and harsh chemicals and uses the age-old method of blending fruit, vegetables and herb pigments to create vibrant, beautiful colors.”
