Introduction

Now a dynamic area of the international financial services sector and with a rising demand for a more ethical approach to finance, Islamic finance is set to continue increasing in importance over the next decade.

Following the successful review of the original CIMA Certificate in Islamic Finance we took the opportunity to develop the structure of the qualification and how it is offered to reflect the changing requirements for Islamic finance in business. Students can now specialise in areas of their choice which provides a more relevant and focused learning and development.

The CIMA qualifications in Islamic Finance consist of the:

- ▶ Certificate in Islamic Commercial Law
- ▶ Certificate in Islamic Banking and Takaful
- ▶ Certificate Islamic Capital Markets and Instruments
- ▶ Certificate in Accounting for Islamic Financial Institutions
- ▶ Diploma in Islamic Finance (comprised of the four Certificates)

“The qualification has made me a globally recognised Certified Islamic Financier.”

Khaled Ghassan Yousef,
Channels Business Analyst, Consumer Banking, Arab Bank PLC

What is Islamic Finance?

Islamic banking is seen as an alternative to traditional finance and a growing sector of the global finance market which is bringing new opportunities. With the Islamic banking market valued at over USD1.66 trillion, combined with the estimated growth rate of up to 20% year on year, the need for human capital to bring Islamic finance to the level at which it deserves and meet its markets demands is higher than ever. Islamic finance, with its emphasis on ethical finance, is suitable for both Muslims and non-Muslims.

Why CIMA Islamic Finance Qualifications?

A career in Islamic finance requires unique management skills and knowledge. The CIMA Islamic Finance Qualifications will give you a thorough understanding of the principles that underpin the industry. Our Islamic finance qualifications have won awards to recognise their world-leading status in the industry including 'Best training institution' at the 2015 Islamic Business & Finance Awards.
