Comprehension and Analysis:

1. The book puts me in a dark and sad mood so far. It has already talked about death, curses, and bad luck. Also, the descriptions of Camp Green lake are very depressing. It is a prison for young boys who have committed crimes, and it is barren, hot, and miserable.
2. Camp Green Lake is a dry, flat wasteland that is always terribly hot. There are only two trees in the whole area. The place is filled with rattlesnakes, scorpions, and poisonous lizards. This kind of setting might cause depressed, sad, and hopeless emotions.
3. Stanley Yelnats is a boy that is headed to Camp Green Lake. He comes from a poor family. He didn't commit the crime for which he was convicted, he was just in the wrong place at the wrong time. He is overweight and is teased for that at school.
