HOW TO FIT
AND WEAR YOUR

BIOFEEDBAC™
BACK SUPPORT BELT

CORRECTLY

- No Batteries
- No Magnets
- Pacemaker Safe

Designed in the UK

How to fit and wear your Biofeedbac Support Belt correctly

1. Remove or hitch-up your top clothing so you expose your lower back and tummy.
2. You do not need to remove your trousers/skirt: keep these on while fitting the Biofeedbac Support Belt.
3. Place the Biofeedbac Support Belt around your lower back (A). Ensuring that the Biofeedbac pads are on the inside on the belt so they are touching your back (C).

(A): Wrap the inside of the belt to your lower back.

(B): This should be aligned on your spinal column.

4. Position the belt so the centre panel is aligned correctly with your spinal column (B) – the protective centre piece should be placed against the spinal cord so the Biofeedbac pads are on either side of the spine.

5. Close the Biofeedbac Support Belt using the hook and loop tabs. Ensure that it is a snug fit but remains comfortable.

Do not over tighten the belt as this may cause discomfort.

Ensure the Biofeedbac logos are facing your back the correct way round (D).

(C): The Biofeedbac sensory pads should be touching your back muscles – either side of your spinal column.

(D): Ensure the Biofeedbac logos are facing your back the correct way round.

Size of Biofeedbac Support Belt (22" to 55") when stretched. Place Biofeedbac Support Belt just above the belt line.

Important note

If you are in any doubt about the severity of your injury or the best way to treat it, you should seek professional medical advice.
