Co-Create your Legacy Painting with Rolinda

This success story could become yours ...

The Coors Family Foundation board room had two big issues to solve:

First: The artwork previously hung, (not mine) was too aggressive. Boardrooms can get stressful. There was a need for artwork that is peaceful.

Second: The design of the room made for a challenge. They could not decide if the artwork should be centered on the wall or centered to the grand boardroom table and lighting.

A fun little side note. One employee wanted to have some animals in the painting. We all joked that I would secretly add some buffalo hidden in the painting so she would have something fun to look at in these long board meetings. Instead of buffalo, I gave her a ladybug. The whole crew loved the ladybug so much they asked me back to add some hummingbirds.

“ We are so thrilled with the painting Rolinda created for us. It not only fits the room perfectly, but it fits the Adolph Coors Foundation’s personality perfectly. It was such a pleasure to work with Rolinda. ”

"I Spy" – Art That's Beautiful and Playful

What HIDDEN TREASURES will be in your Legacy Painting?

“Thanks so much for your note, Rolinda! Our painting looks fantastic! People walk into the house and are like, “wow” - it makes a powerful statement. We’re enjoying playing “I spy” with the animals, too.”

–BETH AND JEFF

“Jeff and I are impressed as to how well it fits in with the gray of the house, in a really natural way. It’s like a bridge between our two favorite places - the mountains and the water. And, we love that it’s both beautiful and playful!”

The Cracks are Intentional . . .

I felt broken... that's why I break my paintings.

In the beginning of my journey, I was broken. The need to be perfect was killing me. I had no hope of ever being "good enough." The hopelessness set in. I felt isolation. Shame. No light was shining through my cracks.

I know God doesn't make mistakes, but my life said otherwise. It was through my brokenness that I discovered the path to wholeness. I discovered a painting style that I call Bella Rotta... Beautifully Imperfect.

Bella Rotta freed me from my despair. I was liberated from the prison of perfectionism. My soul was rebooted. I learned how to rest and I was filled with vitality. My work gave me purpose. I started to play again and I found joy. I discovered my muse and creativity flowed. I started living again. As the light began to shine through my cracks, I was finally safe to be Beautiful As Is.

Bella Rotta became my muse. Now, I fill my days bringing the beauty, joy and freedom of Bella Rotta to my collectors through a co-creation experience. Whether you are looking to heal through creating, to bring the beauty of the outside in, or just want a unique piece of art for your home, your story becomes the muse.

The cracks in your legacy are Beautiful As Is.
