

BESPOKE OAK PLANKS

We wanted to create a small collection of sustainable wood flooring which would fit with our high-quality, design-led ethos. And, after scouring the forests and factories of Europe, we think we've come up with the perfect edit. From cool Scandi pales to warm naturals and delicious darks, our range of beautifully made engineered oak plank flooring comes in a modern palette chosen by interiors experts.

How it's made

This flooring is made from a top layer of precision-milled solid oak backed on to engineered cores made from spruce, poplar and birch timbers for outstanding stability. Planks are simple to fit, with a traditional tongue and groove installation system.

The finish

Coated with either UV cured oil or invisible lacquer, our modern finishes will protect and enhance the natural beauty of your wooden floor. To complete your installation, we have a range of colour-matched trims for stairs and doorways, as well as repair and recolouring kits for any knocks and scratches that might occur over the years. These floors are super-easy to maintain and come with a 25 year warranty.

The grade

Our plank flooring is rustic grade, which means there's a natural variation in the finish. We prefer this authentic texture to more uniform (and expensive) alternative grades which can sometimes look a bit fake. These boards may contain colour variation, burls, dark streaks, open or filled knots and small holes

Forest friendly

All our manufacturer's products carry the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) certificate which means they originate from forestries committed to environmentally and socially responsible logging and to protecting biodiversity. All our timber is harvested using clean felling practices which don't lead to any reduction in oak forests and our manufacturers work closely with local groups to ensure sustainability at every stage of the process.
