COMPANY FOOD CHAIN VULNERABILITY POLICY STATEMENT

JustIngredients Ltd is committed to supply products that are safe, legal and of the quality demanded by our customers.

The company understands the need to assess the risks associated with the products supplied, which may include vulnerability points as follows:

- Opportunities for contamination – at point of harvest, grinding of products (addition of unsafe or fraudulent contact), during transportation, during processing
- Price rises of commodities – desire to increase productivity
- Shortages of commodities – need to improve productivity
- New suppliers with no track history – untried supply chain
- Premium product where fraud can give good returns – selling products falsely
- Supplier experience in food safety requirements for EU market
- Storage security
- Number of stages in the supply chain (length of supply chain – longer increases opportunity for tampering)
- Allergen risk – other allergens in the supply chain
- Historical issues and legal requirements
- Security of supply at points in the supply chain

JustIngredients monitors existing and emerging issues in order to notify customers of threats to the products supplied. Approved suppliers carry out checks of the supply chain to support our knowledge of product vulnerability.

Customers will be alerted of any issues relating to the presence of a threat that constitute a significant food safety risk.
