

Jewellery STOPS

L'Officiel Monaco presents a short list of jewellery brands that are this season's favourites. Each of them continues to amaze us with their design and innovative solutions. It is simply impossible not to fall in love with this jewellery!

By VICTORIA CELLUN

SHAUN LEANE

The creator of some of the most admired jewellery masterpieces of the twenty-first century, Shaun Leane, has redefined the standard of British jewellery design for over twenty years. Combining innovation with exquisite craftsmanship, the jewellery brand is known for its timeless elegance, embodying modern romance. The Interlocking earrings are detachable and their upper parts can be worn separately. All pieces of the Interlocking collection have been designed to be assembled in a variety of configurations.

LAURA GALLON

Laura Gallon's jewellery is a homage to her family heritage. Designed initially by Laura Gallon's great-grandfather for her great-grandmother in the 1920s, these earrings are the starting point and inspiration for the Alice collection. Likewise, their Art Deco style was as seductive back then as they are today – they are the promise of timeless elegance to be passed down through generations.

CHANEL

Desired, provoked, unexpected: Gabrielle Chanel's life is a story of encounters that changed her destiny. The COCO CRUSH collection embodies these encounters with clean and regular decorative markings that intersect on the curved surface of each piece. In January of this year, Chanel unveiled its new COCO

CRUSH Fine Jewelry campaign produced with the brand ambassadors and actresses Margaret Qualley and Amanda Stenberg, joining Jennie, singer and Chanel ambassador for the COCO CRUSH campaign. These creations blend strength and delicacy, simplicity and density, softness and rigour.

LOUISE SINCLAIR

Louise's designs reflect her devotion to empowering modern-day women through glamorous yet practical collections that speak the language of women from all walks of life. She has championed a timeless style that masters the balance between comfort and design flair, which translates to her collections and bespoke commissions. The bubble link bracelet with rub-over diamonds is a go-to signature piece that won't disappoint you. Perfect for women across generations, this finishing touch is all you need to instantly elevate your look.

FAIDEE

Faidee is a long-established international business, highly regarded in the gem and jewellery community. The iconic high-end jewellery house offers one of the largest collections of Burmese rubies, which are impressive due to their intense red colours, sizes, and scarcity. Indeed, they are the rarest rubies in the world. High jewellery collectors worldwide well know Faidee. In addition, the brand is involved in auctions, working closely with Sotheby's and Christie's.
