WE'RE TREE PEOPLE AND THAT'S WHY WE STARTED THIS BUSINESS IN 2016.

Behind every lumber mill, there are mountains of imperfect pieces. Something as simple as a knot or a small split may be all it takes to consider a board unacceptable to big box stores. We see knots in the same way a cosmologist might see a beauty mark: As character! And, because these boards aren't considered perfect, that means you get unique lumber at a fraction of the cost. We call that a win-win! With thirteen locations and counting, we've got plenty of tongue & groove, shiplap and flooring to hit the nail on the head.

Lumber & Supply locations are scattered throughout the Southeast in six states, with 13 lumberyards (and growing)! Continuing to offer valuable materials and outstanding customer service to all projects big and small is what we do best. Store managers and staff are local to the community, offering support to other small businesses and organizations. To find a Lumber & Supply near you, see our Contact Page at the end of this catalog.

SHIPLAP

Shiplap's versatility makes it one of our most popular products. It can be used almost anywhere, from barns, sheds, patios, and garages to finished interior accent walls, bathrooms and kitchens, the list goes on. If you can dream it, Shiplap can do it. It adds a cozy intimate feel to any home instantly and is also flexible enough to help creatively construct signs, sliding doors and furniture. Traditional shiplap has a rabbet joint or groove cut into the top and bottom of the board. This joint allows for two pieces of shiplap to fit together closely to form a seal creating more strength. It also creates a stylistic little shadow or gap in between boards that adds natural dimension instantly.

The majority of shiplap (including these life-size renderings) is Southern Yellow Pine, but many of our locations offer other species like Cypress, Spruce Pine and Eastern White Pine. We offer several widths of shiplap in both natural and pre-finished colors. You can choose from rough or smooth-faced options in grades D, #2, or Cull.

FLOORING

With a life-expectancy of well over a hundred years, Southern Yellow Pine floors are attractive and extremely durable. The golden-brown grain of this flooring adds warmth and light to any space. When purchasing natural pine flooring you'll have the choice to stain the wood to your preference or finish with a varnish that brings out the pine's natural coloring. Southern Yellow Pine is more sustainable than hardwood species due to the fact that it grows much faster than hardwoods. Thanks to its sustainability, Southern Yellow Pine is a cost-effective alternative, costing around half as much as slower-growing hardwoods.

Most flooring is created with a stress-relieving pattern on the underside. Hollow back flooring has a large wide groove carved out on the underside, and Kerf-back has a series of grooves cut into it. Both styles serve the purpose of keeping boards flat overtime and allowing ample amount of air flow throughout the floor. A few common patterns we offer are:

4" Hollow Back Flooring
Coverage 3 1/8" | Thickness 23/32"

6" Hollow Back Flooring – Coverage 5 1/8" | Thickness 23/32"

8" Hollow Back Flooring – Coverage 6 7/8" | Thickness 23/32"

10" Wide Plank Flooring – Coverage 8 7/8" | Thickness 3/4"

12" Wide Plank Flooring – Coverage 10 7/8" | Thickness 3/4"

TONGUE & GROOVE

Tongue & Groove boards fit soundly together to cover plaster, sheetrock and popcorn ceilings while adding a decorative accent. In contrast to Shiplap, where the boards rest on top of one another, tongue and groove planks join together and interlock. This style creates a seamless seal that will withstand the test of time.

The majority of Tongue & Groove (including these life-size renderings) is Southern Yellow Pine, but many of our locations offer other species like Cypress, Spruce Pine and Eastern White Pine. We offer several widths of Tongue & Groove in both natural and pre-finished colors. You can choose from rough or smooth-faced options in grades D, #2, or Cull.
