Out With The Old, In With The New

That begins by changing the way we make clothing. We understand that the status quo is fundamentally broken and it's damaging our world. Each garment is made-to-order using a limited amount of fabric and is cut and sewn by our tailors, trained in the Italian art form. No inventory, no excess waste.

We choose perennial styles in the best seasonal fabrics. You choose your preferences. We tailor to order.

Thoughtfully Sourced Fabrics

We thoughtfully and responsibly source fabrics from around the world – from the oldest looms just outside of Osaka to one of the last remaining vertical woolen mills in Great Britain. We pay close attention to detail and celebrate the subtle brilliance of craft.

Limited Edition Garments

Each Onsloe item is one of a select few that will ever be made – a unique staple to your wardrobe. This eliminates wasteful over-production that all too often ends up in landfills or becomes incinerated.
