

How to Make Optimal Homeschooling To-Do Charts

Small victory steps that lead to huge childhood successes—both academically and domestically!

by Renee Ellison

Table of Contents

Why make and use to-do charts ----- Page 1

1. Charts are mom’s cockpit ----- Page 1

2. Charts wean children off of mom & grow responsible children ---- Page 1

3. Charts ensure sanity of mom and the entire household ----- Page 2

Goals ----- Page 2

1. Mom’s big-picture goal for herself ----- Page 3

2. Mom’s long-range goal for her children ----- Page 4

How to optimize the use of charts----- Page 5

1. Optimum location, size, and length of charts ----- Page 5

2. Optimum timing for each task ----- Page 7

3. Two secret keys to the construction of very effective charts ----- Page 9

4. Optimally move all areas forward simultaneously ----- Page 10

5. Transition to charts joyfully ----- Page 11

6. Train children’s attitudes while progressing through their charts -- Page 11

7. Work on developing appropriate speed in all their work habits --- Page 12

Results?! ----- Page 12

For further reading and ideas ----- Page 12

Sample chart ----- Page 13

This is a production of Homeschool How-To’s, by Renée Ellison
Website: www.homeschoolhowtos.com Email: CrossOver@Ellison.net