THE BLACK LEOPARD
My Quest to Photograph One of Africa’s Most Elusive Big Cats
By Will Burrard-Lucas

Will Burrard-Lucas’s love for leopards began during his childhood in Tanzania and propelled him into a career as a wildlife photographer. In his quest to create intimate portraits of animals, he developed innovative technology, including a remotely controlled camera on wheels and a high-quality camera trap system for photographing nocturnal creatures. Black leopards had not been scientifically documented in Africa for more than 100 years, but in 2018, Burrard-Lucas tracked down and photographed one of these elusive cats in Kenya. In this compelling and visually dramatic book, part memoir, part nature photography, he tells his story of creativity, entrepreneurship, and passion for wild animals, alongside awe-inspiring images of lions, elephants, and the black leopard itself.

Jacketed Hardcover, $35.00, 195 x 250 mm, 208 pp, full-color photographs throughout, Spring 2021

Once you become comfortable with growing dahlias from tubers, you may want to try your hand at a few more advanced methods. While the most common way to propagate dahlias is by dividing tuber clumps, as mentioned previously, taking cuttings is another great but lesser known method to multiply your stock.

A few years ago, I saw a photo of an incredible soft pink dahlia called ‘Castle Drive’ on Instagram, and I went on a mad hunt to find tubers for it. For months, I scoured all of the North American sources I could find, without any luck. Over 100 calls, emails, and dead-end searches later, I finally gave up hope of ever finding them. Then one day in late April 2016, out of the blue, I found a box with 20 perfect tubers waiting in my mailbox, with no return address. To this day I still don’t know who sent them to me! I’ve taken very, very good care of that original stock, and was able to multiply those original tubers from 20 to over 2,000 in just two growing seasons through the process of taking cuttings. In addition to the incredible soft pink/blush coloring, they are one of the first varieties to bloom, and the flowers are long lasting with strong, tall stems. If I had to pick a favorite variety (we have nearly 800), this beauty would surely be it!

MANGO AND PEPPERCORNS
A Memoir of Food, an Unlikely Family, and the American Dream
By Tung Nguyen, Katherine Manning, and Lyn Nguyen with Elisa Ung

Here is a powerful memoir of resilience, friendship, family, and food. In 1975, after narrowly escaping the fall of Saigon, pregnant refugee and gifted cook Tung Nguyen ended up in the Miami home of Kathy Manning, then a graduate student and waitress. This serendipitous meeting evolved into a decades-long partnership that turned strangers into family and a tiny, no-frills eatery into one of the most lauded restaurants in the country. Through their alternating perspectives, Mango and Peppercorns tells Tung and Kathy’s improbable, quintessentially American story as they raise Tung’s daughter, Lyn, and open Hy Vong (“hope” in Vietnamese), all while navigating the challenges of immigration, assimilation, blending families, and making ends meet. Through powerful narrative, archival imagery, and 20 Vietnamese recipes that mirror their story, Mango and Peppercorns is a unique contribution to culinary literature.

THE LIVING INFINITE
A Game of Submarine Survival
By Dylan Birtolo

The Living Infinite is a social prediction board game in which scientists stranded on the ocean floor desperately try to repair their broken submarine, all while being hunted by deep sea predators. Most players work together as scientists, exploring the ocean floor and gathering materials to repair their ship, while one or two players move as creatures, hunting the scientists down through the inky depths. With asymmetrical, one-versus-many play, it’s an undersea adventure of quick wits and strategic social prediction. Can you rebuild your ship in time to escape, or will your wily predator find you first?

Box with lift-off lid, $29.99, 203.2 x 203.2 mm, fabric board, wooden submarine puzzle, 6 pawns, 26 punch-out tokens, 10 metal tokens, 10 crystal tokens, 20 cards, instructions, Spring 2021

BLINDFOLD
The Game of Scribbles, Sabotage, and Spatial Reasoning
By Tom Ackerman

The rules of this highly addictive party game are simple: Using a shared piece of paper, write a word, draw a shape around it, and then manipulate the paper (through folding, unfolding, flipping, and tearing) to ensure that only your words are visible during scoring. Easy, right? Now try it blindfolded! This hilarious game for 2–6 players will challenge memory, spatial reasoning, and your friends’ trustworthiness as an easy-to-learn premise becomes a complex game of strategy and surprise, as well as a chance to giggle at your friends’ and family’s mistakes—until it’s your turn to put the blindfold on!

Box with lift-off lid, $19.95, 203.2 x 203.2 mm, 30 cards, 6 pencils, 6 blindfolds, sheets of paper, Spring 2021

SOMEONE HAS DIED
A Silly Game about Serious Business
By Gather Round Games

This zany, improvisational storytelling game places 3–6 players in the middle of a will arbitration. Using unique Identity, Relationship, and Backstory cards, each player must create an increasingly ridiculous case for why they should inherit the contents of a will, while facing silly questions from the other players. For example, you might be a talking dog who was the deceased’s roller disco partner—but can you explain how you’re also a time traveler and why this means you deserve the deceased’s collection of bottle caps? The result is a wild ride of persuasion, dramatization, and negotiation that’s fun for reluctant role players and lively character actors alike.

Box with lift-off lid, $24.95, 142.9 x 193.7 mm, 163 illustrated cards, instructions, Fall 2021

POLAROID NOW
Essays by Oskar Smolokowski, Steve Crist

Polaroid Now is an officially licensed partnership with the world-renowned Polaroid brand. The book features both vintage and current Polaroid photography from iconic photographers and emerging artists. Augmenting the photographs, a comprehensive visual and written index will list every Polaroid camera created to date. An artist index will show thumbnail images of every photograph included in the book along with the name of the artist, the location, date, and the specific Polaroid camera and film stock used.

Polaroid Now’s exterior packaging design celebrates its vintage, brightly colored, and now-iconic design of the Colorpack Film boxes. As a further design reference to the classic silver Polaroid film packs, the book itself will feature silver gilded edges, enhancing the book’s must-have design-object quality.

OLD SCHOOL PHOTOGRAPHY
100 Things You Must Know to Take Fantastic Film Photos
By Kai Man Wong

Old School Photography is a how-to manual for taking photographs with 35-millimeter and medium-format film cameras. Through writing, diagrams, and photographic examples, author Kai Man Wong explains all you need to know about owning and using the best film cameras available in the world. Like the resurgence of vinyl records, there is a huge renewed interest among camera and photography enthusiasts in collecting and using vintage film cameras. In fact, film manufacturers have started reselling out-of-print film stock—Kodak just re-released their beloved Ektachrome film in 2019. Old-school photography is new to many young photographers, and many of them are looking back at classic techniques with renewed creative interest.

Unlike with digital photography, in film-based photography there is a sense of craft, skill, patience, technical knowledge, and a trial-and-error process that results in a greater sense of accomplishment. This growing trend is becoming a larger niche in the realm of photography in the digital age.

About the author:
Kai Wong is an influential photography and camera media personality with a devoted fan base of 1 million subscribers on his own YouTube Channel.

CASE STUDY HOUSE #22
The Story of the Stahl Family’s Modernist Dream Home
By Shari Stahl Gronwald and Bruce Stahl, with writer Kim Cross

Case Study House #22, also known as the Stahl House after the family who built it, is considered one of the most iconic and recognizable examples of mid-century modern architecture in the world. Designed by architect Pierre Koenig and immortalized by photographer Julius Shulman, this glass-and-steel home built in 1960 in the Hollywood Hills has come to embody the idealism of a generation in search of the American dream and is revered internationally. As one of the Case Study Houses designed between 1945 and 1966 under the vision of John Entenza and Arts & Architecture magazine, this was an affordable yet progressive design experiment to address the postwar housing shortage.

This book focuses on three main aspects of the home’s notoriety: its prominence as a work of architecture, its life as a family home, and its identity as a cultural icon. Through extensive writing, interviews, architectural drawings, construction photos, family memorabilia, celebrity photoshoots, international fashion ad campaigns, and more, this book captures the complete biography of one of the most important and revered modernist homes in the world.

Unjacketed Hardcover, $24.95, 182.8 x 228.6 mm, 192 pages, over 200 full-color and black-and-white photographs, Spring 2021

THE ART OF ALICE AND MARTIN PROVENSEN

The Art of Alice and Martin Provensen is the first-ever monograph on this revered mid-century husband-and-wife illustration team. Together they created more than 40 award-winning children’s books over the span of seven decades. In 1984, their book The Glorious Flight won the Caldecott Medal, and their renowned books have been included in the New York Times Best Illustrated Books of the Year list nine times. The Provensens worked together, literally on the same illustrations, creating vintage classics for the immensely popular Little Golden Books series, including The Color Kittens, written by Margaret Wise Brown in 1949. The duo illustrated many books for Golden Press, such as The Animal Fair (1952), The Golden Treasury of Myths and Legends (1959), and Tales from the Ballet (1968). Their illustrations for Robert Louis Stevenson’s A Child’s Garden of Verses (1951) have made it a highly collectible and beloved classic. Additionally, the Provensens created Kellogg’s Frosted Flakes cereal’s beloved mascot Tony the Tiger. The team’s delightful illustrations and plethora of styles have influenced generations of readers and illustrators.

but social media has now amplified everything—and those trends have started to reach even more people, and at a faster rate, than ever before. Instagram, for example, now has over one billion users, up from 130 million users in June 2013. And more than 500 million of those users use the platform every day.

Social media has truly changed the way we eat and exercise on a daily basis. Instead of listening to what our own body wants and needs, as Ayurveda teaches, many of us instead choose to listen to what our followers want and need: pretty food and cool-looking workouts. These days, people seek out highly-photogenic “Instagram foods” (think: rainbow bagels and bright, highly-saturated smoothie bowls) just as much for their social media potential as for their taste. Who cares if the food is delicious or actually good for you and your needs as long it shocks, excites, ignites, and reels in those likes? And the same goes for workouts: People now want to try out exercise moves that simply look cool on Instagram, like those crazy bendy yoga poses, no matter if they’re actually doable or even dangerous. We are living in an internet age where everything needs to be a little bit extra, a little bit filtered, and a lot bit highly saturated. And that collective quest for gram-worthy content leaves little room for the Ayurvedic philosophy that we shouldn’t be going a/f_short the same things at all.

With this backdrop in mind, I thought that now would be the perfect time to learn even more about that philosophy. Although

DESTINATION WELLNESS
Global Secrets for Better Living Wherever You Are
By Annie Daly

Health and travel journalist Annie Daly combines on-the-ground reporting and personal narrative to explore philosophies and practices for better living around the globe, as an antidote to an often toxic wellness industry. She travels to Jamaica, Brazil, Japan, India, Norway, and Hawaii to learn why their inhabitants are so much healthier and happier, and what we can learn from them. While these traditions may appear to have little in common, their roots provide an essential truth: living well isn’t a trend or a competition, and it certainly isn’t something you can buy.

TRUMPTY DUMPTY WANTED A CROWN
By John Lithgow

Following the success of his New York Times bestseller Dumpty, actor, author, and illustrator John Lithgow presents Trumpty Dumpty Wanted a Crown, a new book of satirical poems chronicling the despotic age of President Donald Trump. This collection is funnier, darker, and more hard-hitting than ever. Lithgow writes and draws with wit and fury as he takes readers through another year of the Trump administration. His rollicking poems and illustrations cover Trump’s impeachment, the COVID-19 pandemic, the Black Lives Matter movement, and much more. He targets Mitch McConnell, Mike Pompeo, Bill Barr, Jared Kushner, Elaine Chao, and many others, but also includes a few heroes of the moment, such as Anthony Fauci, Nancy Pelosi, Adam Schiff, and Barack Obama. Lithgow’s new book arrives at a time when we need it most. Once again, he will make readers laugh, think, and remember some of the most defining moments in our recent history, skewering the reign of King Dumpty one stanza at a time.

WILD RITUALS
10 Lessons Animals Can Teach Us About Connection, Community, and Ourselves
By Caitlin O’Connell
Photographs by Caitlin O’Connell and Timothy Rodwell

Stanford behavioral ecologist and world-renowned elephant scientist Caitlin O’Connell has spent more than 30 years studying animals in the wild. With fascinating stories and full-color photography, O’Connell reveals 10 lost rituals from the animal kingdom that teach us how to be more connected to ourselves, nature, and others. Through her expeditions in the Caribbean and the African savannah, this award-winning author immerses us in the cultures of elephants, apes, zebras, rhinos, lions, whales, flamingos, and other animals. The result is a captivating look at just how similar we are to these wild creatures and how we can reclaim our innate ability to connect for a more meaningful life.

THERE IS A RAINBOW
By Theresa Trinder, Illustrated by Grant Snider

On the other side of a window, there is a neighbor. On the other side of sadness, there is a hug. And on the other side of a storm, there is a rainbow. Sometimes we are separated by distance, sometimes by the way we feel. Even though the world is full of barriers that can make us feel disconnected, this hopeful and timely picture book reminds us that there is always something, or someone, waiting for us on the other side. With an uplifting message for some of life’s most difficult moments, this poetic picture book encourages readers to look past their immediate surroundings and find comfort, community, and inner courage—all are closer than we might think.

THE FOX AND THE FOREST FIRE
By Danny Popovici

This thoughtful picture book is a timely and reassuring conversation starter about our natural world and its fragile yet persevering ecosystems, and a reminder that hope and resilience can triumph over tragedy. Just as Oswald is beginning to love his new home and the beautiful forest around it, a devastating fire burns everything to the ground. Oswald and his mom have to flee and abandon their home, leaving behind all their belongings—and Oswald’s newfound friend, Fox. With time, though, the forest will regrow, the animals will return to their homes, and so will Oswald and his mom. In this touching story of tragedy and loss, it is hope, friendship, and resilience that shine the brightest.

WHAT IS LOVE?
By Mac Barnett
Illustrated by Carson Ellis

This beautiful fable from international picture book stars Mac Barnett and Carson Ellis is a meditation on the nature of love. A young boy asks his grandmother, “What is love?” Instead of giving him an answer, she sends him on a journey to discover it for himself. Each person the boy encounters—a fisherman, a priest, an actor, and others—has a response, but no answer seems quite right, until the boy returns home and realizes the answer was there all along. Dazzling pictures complement the spare, tender prose. The result is a picture book treasure for all ages to read and cherish.

INSIDE CAT
By Brendan Wenzel

The endlessly inventive Brendan Wenzel returns with a new picture book about a cat: an inside cat. Inside cat’s life may be bound by the walls of his unusual house, but it’s far from dull. As he wanders, wonders, stares, and snacks, roaming from room to room and place to place, he and the reader discover worlds and sensations beyond what’s right in front of them. Playful, perceptive, and full of surprising delights at every page turn, Inside Cat is a celebration of observation, curiosity, and the imagination from a picture book creator at the height of his powers.

BENBEE BOOK 2
By K.A. Holt

Ben B., Ben Y., Jordan J., and Javier are stuck in a remedial class during summer school, shoved under the stairs of his school. But Ben B. and his classmates aren’t dumb—they’re divergent thinkers. What happens when they’re tasked with making a school newspaper? Each chapter is told through the perspective of one of the four students, making for a distinct and engaging cast of characters in a series of complementary, but not continuing, storylines. This heartwarming, laugh-out-loud novel-in-verse cycle is an honest, heartfelt collection of books about friendship, school, and videogames that celebrates different types of intelligence and encourages even the most reluctant reader to embrace their own “divergent” self.

Jacketed Hardcover, $16.99, 142.87 x 206.37 mm, 342 pages ages 8 to 12, 35,000 words, Fall 2021

AUDREY L AND AUDREY W: BEST FRIENDS-ISH
By Carter Higgins, Illustrated by Jennifer K. Mann

The unique writing of Ivy + Bean meets the pep of Clementine in this chapter book series about two girls with the same name and nothing else in common.

More than anything, second-grader Audrey wants to be the best at something. It always feels like she’s not-quite-enough—not smart enough, not fast enough, not funny enough. So when another Audrey joins her class, she feels like she can’t even be the best Audrey. But do the two Audrey’s have more in common than a name? Might they even get along? Set over the course of one school week, this big-hearted, true-to-life chapter book will resonate with any young reader who’s ever felt overlooked or second best.

Jacketed Hardcover, $14.99, 139.7 x 184.15 mm, 124 pages, black and white illustrations throughout, ages 6 to 9, 18,600 words, Fall 2021

THE FIRE OF STARS
The Life and Brilliance of the Woman Who Discovered What Stars Are Made Of
By Kirsten W. Larson, Illustrated by Katherine Roy

Astronomer and astrophysicist Cecilia Payne was the first person to discover what burns at the heart of stars. But she started out as a girl burning with curiosity, chasing the thrilling lightning bolt of discovery, hoping one day to unlock the mysteries of the universe. With lyrical, evocative text by Kirsten W. Larson and extraordinary illustrations by award-winning illustrator Katherine Roy, this moving biography powerfully parallels the kindling of Cecilia Payne’s own curiosity and her scientific career with the process of a star’s birth, from mere possibility in an expanse of space to an eventual, breathtaking explosion of light.
