PATTERN NOTES

Note^o1: The total grams of beads needed will vary according to their size.

Note^o2: Before starting your project, make a swatch to ensure you are getting gauge and that your cowl will come out to the correct final measurements. If you have more stitches per inch than indicated, your tension is tighter, and you must go up a needle size or two. If you have fewer stitches per inch than indicated, your tension is looser, and you need to go down a needle size or two.

Note^o3: If you changed the size of your main needles to obtain a gauge, you would also have to change the needles sizes of your ribbing needle to 1 size smaller, respectively.

Note^o4: Rows are worked flat and Rounds are worked in-the-round.

Note^o5: The text in lilac are video links.
