

Survival Kits for Personal Collections

Now you can care for your photographic, document and textile collections with the same preservation materials that museums and archives use.

How the kits protect precious collections

- Polypropylene materials used are all archival quality. They are inert, stable and do not contain harmful plasticisers that off-gas and cause deterioration of original materials. The polypropylene passes the Photographic Activity Test making it safe for long term storage of photographic material.
- Storing documents and photographs in clear inert sleeves gives protection against wear and tear and allows viewing without handling the originals.
- Slipcases and boxes create a dust and light-proof housing that protects items from discolouration and fading.
- Wearing cotton gloves while handling precious materials can prevent staining and deterioration caused by acidic body oils and dirt.
- No adhesives, tape or stickers are used that can discolour or tear original materials.

The photo survival kit contains an attractive black A4 polypropylene binder & slipcase, 50 high clarity 90micron polypropylene storage pages and a pair of cotton gloves.

The binder contains a 3 ring binder mechanism, powdercoated with an inert solvent-free synthetic polymer that does not off-gas. The 60mm rings can accommodate approximately 50-75 pages. Binder size is 330x290x60mm. Additional binders and sleeves are available as separate items through the full catalogue range (see www.archivalsurvival.com.au)

Document Survival Kits

Document Survival Kits are available in either box or binder format. The binder format consists of a charcoal grey polypropylene binder & slipcase, clear inert polypropylene storage pages and a pair of cotton gloves. Kits are available for A4, foolscap, A3 and A2 documents. All binders except A2 feature a sturdy powdercoated 3 ring mechanism (A2 has 6 rings). Ring size is 40mm with capacity of approx 50 pages. The A4 kit comes with 50 pages, Foolscap and A3 kits have 25 pages and A2 kit has 5 pages. Additional binders and pages are available through the full catalogue range (see www.archivalsurvival.com.au)

The box format consists of a charcoal grey polypropylene manuscript box, 25 archival foolscap manilla folders, 10 crystal clear foolscap polyester sleeves, a pack of inert plastic paper clips (for replacing metal staples and paper clips that can rust), and pair of cotton gloves. External dimensions of the box are 380mm L x 180mm W x 260mm H and can accommodate assorted collections of documents, pamphlets and photographs etc up to foolscap.
