Customer maintains responsibility for ECU while in transit. Appropriate packaging, shipping methods, and insurance should be obtained and pursued at time of shipping, to ensure prompt delivery, service, and safety. It is recommended to ship ECUs in anti-static packaging, with proper cushioning in case of rough handling during transit. Expedited shipping times are never guaranteed, and R1 Industries cannot reimburse or cover costs associated with delays, losses, or damages that result from the shipping and handling process. By mailing the ECU, you agree to the terms and conditions outlined here and elsewhere, during the checkout and purchasing process.
