

SPYHOUSE

COFFEE ROASTERS

ECUADOR

JUAN PEÑA

Imperial Reserve

Strawberry

-

Lilac

-

Limeade

FARM:

La Papaya

Saraguro

CHERRY-DRIED

TYPICA

Juan Peña has quickly risen to become one of the most sought-after coffee producers on the market today, and we at Spyhouse have worked with him since his very first harvest. Personally, we have used his coffee multiple times on the national competition stage, including our Director of Coffee's sequential first and second place National Roaster Championship finishes. Following our winning year, we were invited to return to the farm with Café Imports to work alongside Juan in researching the two best processing methods for his coffee. This year is the first we are able to see the full outcome of that research. This year, the first and third place U.S. Barista Champions each used one of those processes in their final round.

The story of La Papaya is incredibly new. We have only seen full harvests in the past four years. Juan's extensive background in ornamental roses has allowed him to transfer his horticultural background to coffee production. Through individual drippers at each root base, Juan is able to carefully control all of his farm inputs and monitor the effects of each small change upon his trees. His coffee has been an annual favorite of ours and we are honored to share this coffee again with you.

Juan Peña's "Cherry-Dried" lot immediately sings with flavors of fresh wild strawberries, then develops into a soft sweetness of ripe banana and honeyed almond butter. The cup continues to develop more complexity by picking up notes of lilac and limeade. This coffee is an annual favorite of our team and we think of this year's harvest as one of its best expressions. It is the perfect coffee to show the power of productive long-term relationships.

SPYHOUSE COFFEE ROASTERS

945 Broadway St. NE, Minneapolis, MN 55413 | spyhousecoffee.com | @spyhousecoffee

— RETAIL DISPLAY —

ECUADOR

JUAN PEÑA

Imperial Reserve

Strawberry - Lilac - Limeade

Juan Peña has quickly risen to become one of the most sought-after coffee producers on the market today, and we at Spyhouse have worked with him since his very first harvest. Personally, we have used his coffee multiple times on the national competition stage, including our Director of Coffee’s sequential first and second place National Roaster Championship finishes. Following our winning year, we were invited to return to the farm with Café Imports to work alongside Juan in researching the two best processing methods for his coffee. This year is the first we are able to see the full outcome of that research. This year, the first and third place U.S. Barista Champions each used one of those processes in their final round.

The story of La Papaya is incredibly new. We have only seen full harvests in the past four years. Juan’s extensive background in ornamental roses has allowed him to transfer his horticultural background to coffee production. Through individual drippers at each root base, Juan is able to carefully control all of his farm inputs and monitor the effects of each small change upon his trees. His coffee has been an annual favorite of ours and we are honored to share this coffee again with you.

Juan Peña’s “Cherry-Dried” lot immediately sings with flavors of fresh wild strawberries, then develops into a soft sweetness of ripe banana and honeyed almond butter. The cup continues to develop more complexity by picking up notes of lilac and limeade. This coffee is an annual favorite of our team and we think of this year’s harvest as one of its best expressions. It is the perfect coffee to show the power of productive long-term relationships.

SPYHOUSE

COFFEE ROASTERS

— HOPPER CARDS —

ECUADOR

JUAN PEÑA

Imperial Reserve

Strawberry

- Lilac

- Limeade

FARM:

La Papaya

Saraguro

CHERRY-DRIED

TYPICA

SPYHOUSE COFFEE ROASTERS

ECUADOR

JUAN PEÑA

Imperial Reserve

Strawberry

- Lilac

- Limeade

FARM:

La Papaya

Saraguro

CHERRY-DRIED

TYPICA

SPYHOUSE COFFEE ROASTERS