

Instructions

Paint or color the smaller end of the cork a dark gray color.

Rub or wash off any dust from your rock chips for better gluing.

Use hot glue to attach a few rock pieces to your cork in a way that you like. Be sure to leave a flat spot for your Doomslug to sit. Do not overlap the rocks over the edge of the cork, or the bottle may not fit over them.

Use hot glue to attach some moss, and your mushrooms.

Paint your Doomslug however you'd like them to look! Acrylic or hobby store craft paint works just fine for this, but they can also be prepped in the same manner as other hobby miniatures. The mushrooms can also be painted if desired.

Tip: Use hot glue to tack your Doomslug onto the top of a small dowel or other stick which will make it easier to hold. It should come off easily when finished.

Glue your Doomslug into place on one of the rocks, or attach with sticky wax if you prefer to move them around.

Place the glass bottle over the cork as a topper for your terrarium. Glue in place if desired.
