Why Grade Your Collectable Card?

Protecting Your Card For Many Years

- ✓ PROTECTION
- ✓ MAXIMISING VALUE
- ✓ SENTIMENT
- ✓ AUTHENTICITY
- ✓ HISTORY
- ✓ OTHER

PSA encapsulates every card in a tamper-evident, sonically-sealed case. These attractive, hard plastic cases provide protection from pressure and most damage. Once encased, you can rest assured that your cards will remain secure from further wear. Note that the case will not protect your cards from extraordinary events like fires and floods.

Plus, the PSA Financial Guarantee of Grade & Authenticity applies to all PSA encapsulated cards.

The PSA Financial Guarantee of Grade & Authenticity is fundamental to PSA's concept of third-party grading. The cash-back policy ensures the accuracy of the grade assigned to any PSA-graded card as long as the card remains in its tamper-evident holder.

PSA guarantees that all cards submitted to it shall be graded in accordance with PSA grading standards and under the procedures of PSA.

Where is the value and Should I grade?

It's is one of the toughest questions to answer. Most Collectors and resellers show interest in cards that grade between the 9 to 10 range. However, some cards (vintage or new) regardless of their potential grade are considered to hold incredible value. We recommend you do some independent research to determine the potential value of your card if you are seeking to monetise post grade.

From a sentimental point of view, it is always nice to have our most valued memories secured in some shape of form.

There are many other reasons as to why you should consider grading your card. There is not just on type of collector out there. Some may be seeking to complete a full set including commons, others just the artwork. Whatever the reason may be, Game Addict will be more than happy to assist you throughout the process.

What cards do we currently grade?

Currently Game Addict is accepting submissions for Sports Carrds, TCG including Pokemon TCG, Yu Gi-Oh, DBS, Magic and a variety of non sporting cards that are classified as regular sized trading cards (2-11/16" x 3-13/16" and under).

Additional Costs may be incurred for autographed trading cards or post-1998 manufacturer authenticated auto cards that are not guaranteed by the publisher.

If you have a signed card or card or rare high value card, please contact us first before reserving your submission. More information can be found on our Grading Fees Page.

What grade will I get?

What does PSA look for when grading?

PSA grade cards based on condition and centering. They process is not quick and requires intense review by PSA professionals. PSA will inspect every aspect of card (Front & Back). Based on the inspection of the cards, PSA will assign a grade on a scale of 1 and 10 (10 being the highest grade). The card will be encapsulated inside a tamper evident case and labelled with the details of your card (Year, Name, Set, Language etc). Each Graded card is secured with a unique serial number and barcode for PSA authentication.

High grades have:

- ✓ Four perfectly sharp corners
- ✓ Sharp focus
- ✓ Free of staining
- ✓ Centered front
- ✓ Centered back
- ✓ No minor print imperfections

IT'S AS EASY AS 1,2,3.

Step 1. Penny Sleeve & Top Loader

Place your card into a new penny sleeve then slowly insert the card into a top loader.
If you have access to post-it tabs you can secure one to the outside of the penny sleeve.
This prevents risk of handling the cards during the transfer from top loader to PSA Card Saver.

Step 2. Secure the cards for postage. NO movement!

The idea when posting your cards for grading is to prevent any shifting during transport.
If you have more than one card, you can stack them together as pictured in the images 2 and 3 above.

Step 3. Check the cards are secure and tight. Box and Send

Once you have secured the cards, you can now proceed to place them in an envelope or box.
Include a copy of your Game Addict Submission form.
Single Cards can be sent in a Padded Bubble Mailer
Multiple cards should be sent in a padded box or similar, that provides the cards with padding during transport.
