2020 The Angelus

Cabernet Sauvignon

Vinous, Angus Hughson - JUL 2023

92 POINTS

"The 2020 The Angelus comes from high up in the hills and shows it with detail and finesse. Elegant layers of violets, fruit pastilles and dried herbs show that classic McLaren Vale upfront generosity. Structurally, it is a different story. Muscular tannins drive a brooding palate of gravel and dark berry fruit along with layers of earth and cedar to finish."

JamesSuckling.com, Ned Goodwin MW - MAY 2023

"Aromas of tea tree and menthol, with currants and garden herbs, too. There seems to be a concerted effort to cleave fruit, restraint and refinement from the region's predilection for generosity and alcohol. I am not quite sure it works. The tannins are taut and nicely detailed, if not a bit green and tobacco-leaf rough. Time will tell. Scored with the benefit of the doubt."
