Storage and Handling: Shelf life is dependent on exposure to light/air and general good conditions. Products stored in adverse conditions will deteriorate faster. Products stored in ideal conditions away from light and moisture may last substantially longer. Retest date reflects absolute minimum period of time that product should remain in good useable condition if stored as recommended. Typical indicators of re-test failure would be changes in organic properties such as clarity, colour, sediment, haze, off odour. Such changes may be gradual and slight.
