

GALAXY RAIDERS

ERIDANI

Brrr, it is cold! At Eridani, blizzards have been raging uncontrolled for millenia. Trapped underneath the ice are some of the largest methane deposits in the galaxy.

A valuable resource in return for your efforts! Remember this planet is freezing and the journey, long! Pack well, kid!

ALDEBARAN

This giant ball of fire has a nuclear reactor core that is bigger than anything else in our galaxy!

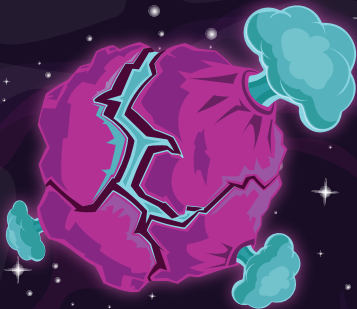

If you collect the hydrogen, helium-3 and helium-4 unscathed then you possess energy that will last a million years. If not, you could become chicken dinner. Eek!

METHUSALAH

The lush green fields of Methusalah await you. Dense forests filled with miracles of nature, unlike anything we have on Earth!

This could be our galaxy's Eden and a second home for our species. Only if you can evade the predatory flora and fauna!

TEKTITE

You are at Tektite, the planet of noxious gases. It seems like the surface could erupt anytime releasing poisonous fumes!

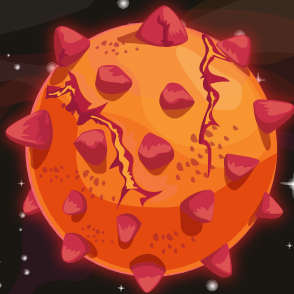

Well, with great hardship comes great reward. There is great mineral wealth beneath the crust. Just wear your protective gear, create your mining base and scoot!

DRACONIS

Get ready for a hostile welcome at Draconis, the planet of the Robots. The eternal AI is able to predict your moves even before you've made them!

They are highly evolved beings and, with them on your side, you may rule the entire galaxy! Come in peace or you may never leave!

COROT

If you think this planet is desolate, you're terribly wrong. Conditions are perfect for microscopic beings to thrive. A hazmat suit is like beachwear here, so visit at your own peril!

The reward, however, is unparalleled. You will find solutions to all earthly woes from electricity-generating protozoa to intelligence-boosting viruses.
