Sharing Access of your Lockbox

- The person to be given access to your Lockbox (recipient) must download the StashCan app and create their own account. The App is available for free on the App Store and Google Play Store.
- Once their account is created, open the “My Locks” page on your app. This page shows your registered Lockboxes.
- From “My Locks” page select which Lockbox you wish to share access with.

Sharing Access of your Lockbox

- From the selected Lockbox page scroll to the bottom and press the “Sharing Your Lockbox” button.
- The recipient needs to select the “Access a Friends Lockbox” button, where they can view their “Share Code.”

Sharing Access of your Lockbox

- From the “Manage Access” page you will enter their share code.
- Once shared, the recipient can unlock your Lockbox, but does not have access to any of the other settings.
- You have the option to revoke their access at anytime.

Transferring Ownership of Your Lockbox

- In order to transfer ownership of your Lockbox you first must remove the Lockbox from your account. An “Orange Reset” is the process you first must go through.
- This can be done through our app by pressing the “Remove Lockbox” option.
- Your Lockbox will first re-boot then the LEDs will flash orange. This means it is no longer claimed to an account or connected to WiFi and a Factory Reset should be performed

Transferring Ownership of Your Lockbox

- To perform the reset you must hold the reset button down until the LEDs go from white to Yellow, once yellow you can release the button.
- Your Lockbox will then re-boot and return to “Rotating White Mode.” This means the box is in factory settings.
- Your Lockbox then can be claimed by another account, to see how to add a Lockbox to your account see our Quick Start Guide.
