Scoop Vest

MAKR VELOUR
PLUSH JUMBO

INTERMEDIATE KNIT

This is our inside scoop story; because we think this fabulous vest is knitting news-worthy. The Scoop Vest is made with the fronts and backs knitted together. The knitting starts at the back, and separated in two parts at the neckline, which join together again to work towards the front. The level of knitting is intermediate, but can also be for beginners who are starting to develop simple shaping techniques; by working into the front and back of the stitch to increase, and by knitting two stitches together to decrease. These techniques create some nice contouring effects in the garment. Short sleeves are knitted separately. There is the option to knit-in a collar by picking up stitches at the neckline and knitting a couple of rows in stocking stitch, or by leaving a deep-V neckline in the front and the back. The model wears the size small in the colour Dragonfly on the cover without the collar, and has a deeper neckline. She is wearing the size medium in the colour Volcanic Ash on the second page, that shows the back-view of the garment with the collar knitted in.
