Flea & Tick Eliminator

- A Safer Alternative
- Repels & Kills Fleas & Ticks
- Plant Based Pest-Control

Plant-based insecticides are far safer and significantly less harmful to the environment than their chemical equivalents when used as directed. Certain essential oils work better at killing or repelling different insects. This is why plant based insecticides that claim to kill a wide range of pests are generally less effective.

The types of oils and the percentages used reflect the latest research on plant-based Insecticides. The essential oils used are specifically selected for their effectiveness against fleas and ticks.
