A JENNY WOLF KITCHEN

The Manhattan-based designer imagines a modern country-house kitchen with industrial touches. She starts with a soothing palette, so the brass details and saturated colors really pop.

AN ANTIQUED-MIRROR BACKSPLASH.

"I always keep the cook in mind when designing a kitchen," Wolf says. "It's all about placement." Focusing on both practicality and charm, she included a La Cornue stove from Williams-Sonoma, an unlacquered brass gooseneck faucet by Waterworks, and geometric cement tiles by Granada Tile. "The antiqued-mirror backsplash helps distribute the light nicely, and it's easy to clean."
