HELLO NEW YORK FANS

New York City has incredible appeal and justifiably makes New York a very popular destination. It is a city of contrasts: both loud and quiet, fast yet relaxed, new meets old. Even after the 20th visit, it never gets boring – there is always something to discover. Everyone has heard of the world-famous landmarks such as the Brooklyn Bridge, the Empire State Building and the One World Trade Center. We have also grown fond of the many small spots in the city – and these are the ones we want to show you.

With our travel guide, we wish to put you in a position to experience the city through the eyes of an insider. We'll tell you the hottest spots in every part of town: from cafés, bars and restaurants to shopping areas, the most important attractions and our personal favorite locations.

Our travel guide is designed to make it easier for you to plan your trip. It goes hand in hand with our free Loving New York app and website. You can add any address to your myNY travel planner, move it back and forth, and take your perfect plan with you to New York. On the next page we'll show you exactly how this works.

We wish you lots of fun reading!

TRIBECA

A hidden gem

The name Tribeca is derived from "Triangle Below Canal Street": In the south of Manhattan you have not only the One World Trade Center in direct proximity, but also the Hudson River – and with a little luck you may also see celebrities such as Jay-Z and Beyoncé, Gwyneth Paltrow or Taylor Swift, who all have their lofts here.

Tribeca is above all a place where New Yorkers live. Accordingly, the atmosphere here is family-friendly, and there are many good cafés and restaurants. It's a wonderfully relaxed part of the city that only comes into focus once a year: for the Tribeca Film Festival.

INSIDER TIP

FROM STEFFEN

If you want a piece of the old New York, make sure you visit the Nancy Whiskey Pub. It is the oldest pub in the city and it gives the impression that time has been frozen. The bartender is unique and you can even see the One World Trade Center from here. It's exactly these kinds of places that we love the city for!

INSIDER GUIDES

Sightseeing in Tribeca

Tribeca played an important role in the film industry for a long time, but New York gradually fell behind Hollywood and many buildings fell into disrepair. That was until the actor Robert de Niro joined forces with Jane Rosenthal in 2002 and restored the district's previous significance with the film festival.

The Mmuseumm (no, not a spelling mistake) is the smallest museum in New York City. Three men, whose main job is actually in the film world, converted a freight elevator into a museum.

The restaurant Grand Banks is also located on the Hudson River. In nice weather you will enjoy a fantastic view of the sparkling water. No need to worry about swells – the ship is firmly anchored and doesn't sail anymore, it just sways slightly on the waves.

HOTELS

SHOPPING

The most unusual bookstore in Manhattan is located at 58 Warren Street: The [Mysterious Bookshop] mainly sells crime novels, thrillers and horror stories. As long as it's about murder, blood and investigation. Unique, unusual and well worth a visit.

Israeli-born Nili Lotan's boutique is expensive, but definitely worth a look. Boutiques like this one and many other smaller shops are typical of Tribeca. H&M, Zara and other retail chains are not found here and they are also not desired. This preserves the exclusivity and uniqueness of the fashion that Tribeca has to offer. Our tip: keep your eyes peeled while walking around. You'll come across many cute and creative businesses – Tribeca is full of them!

MIDTOWN & HELL'S KITCHEN

A film-ready city atmosphere

If you are looking for an extra portion of urban city atmosphere in the Big Apple, you will find it in Midtown. The streets are bustling with activity: honking Yellow Cabs, business people making phone calls on the pavement and mobile hot dog stands in between – a big city scene that looks like something out of a movie. Midtown is not only New York's central business district, but also the location of a large number of the most famous skyscrapers. For example, you will find the Empire State Building and the Chrysler Building here. In the center of Midtown is Hell's Kitchen – this is also where the New York Times headquarters is located.

MIDTOWN & HELL'S KITCHEN

FROM TINO

Midtown comprises several smaller neighborhoods and is therefore like a collection of many different places in New York. We love this part of Manhattan for its incredible diversity. You'll find everything that makes this city what it is: from Times Square and the Empire State Building to small and large rooftop bars and shopping areas, everything is here. You definitely won't be bored!

WILLIAMSBURG, GREENPOINT & BUSHWICK

The Mecca of hipsters

Williamsburg is the hipster highlight in New York and not a dangerous place, as many still think. The district is currently the hub of the creative, artistic and freedom-loving population of New York City. What else sets Williamsburg apart? The countless clubs that make up the nightlife, the many green spaces, such as Domino Park, which was built in 2018, a great view of the Manhattan skyline, urban lofts and new luxury class buildings. Many old factory buildings are covered in graffiti, people ride bikes and skateboards here, and yes, they say that the full beard has found its second spring here.
