Therefore, upon the completion of the intricate embroidery phase, we are committed to maintaining the highest standards of precision.

To minimize any potential fitting issues and guarantee an impeccable fit, we will schedule a re-measure session for you. We understand that the passage of time, typically spanning 3-4 months between the initial order and the final stitching, may result in changes to your body statistics.

Our goal is to ensure that the bespoke garment is tailored to your current measurements, providing you with the utmost comfort and confidence when you adorn it for your special occasion. The re-measure session allows us to make any necessary adjustments, ensuring the final product aligns seamlessly with your expectations.
