NATURAL // SOUND

Be it a bird call reverberating across a landscape or the roar of a waterfall, it can be difficult to replicate the beguiling acoustics of nature – simply because Mother Nature holds secrets we are yet to uncover. Although we may not be able to recreate it, we can at least turn to nature to assist us. Artisan carpenters hailing from the small town of Schaabisch Gmuend in Germany use a type of local natural wood – known to enhance acoustics – to create neue Werkstatt's NW3 speakers. With not a skerrick of plastic in sight, the speakers instead use finely perforated powder-coated front guards to emit their powerful sound. @ neue-werkstatt.net

GENTLE // SCENT

The balmy climes of spring lend themselves well to hosting a garden party, where we can enjoy being outside without having to deal with a constant sheen of sweat across our brows. And with garden parties comes the significant consumption of wine, which in turn brings with it a cluster of empty bottles. Rather than sheepishly lug them off to the recycling bin, the imaginations behind Circle 21 found a better way to repurpose wine bottles. Using natural premium soy wax and cotton wicks, Circle 21's collection of fresh, hand-poured candles is housed in recycled wine bottles. @ circle21candles.com
