

From the soil, through the steam, to your skin.

Every summer we gather members of our sales, education and production team to be witnesses and participants in the harvest and distillation of our Certified Organic, artisandistilled HydroSouls. From all corners of the country — New York, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Dallas, Austin, Atlanta, Portland, Fairfield, Albuquerque, Cincinnati, Fort Lauderdale, Minneapolis and San Diego — we come together to celebrate and be inspired by the the blossoming revival of the American family farm tradition.

We're still in a dazed, post-distillation euphoria from our recent trip.

Deeply immersed in the enchanting bioregion of northeastern Washington State, we root our hands and feet in the cool, soft earth, elbow-deep in fragrant Rose Geranium. Here, we get to more intimately know our distillers and the land that bears the plants that become our tools in therapeutic skin care. There is a beautiful bond that's created when harvesting together. Something indescribable, etheric and wild. Tasting, smelling and getting to know the plants, while taking deep healing breaths and laughing with your friends — there's nothing quite like it.

This journey to the lush perfumed fields I can't help but be reminded of the divine cellular connection we have to the plant world, to each other, and to all things.

Ancient Alchemy

Distillation is a transformation in many ways. It transforms fresh plant material into subtle, powerful essences - essential oil + hydrosols. Being witness to this ancient alchemy is a transformation of its own. It's electrifying and humbling to see the simple magic of the elements begin as one thing and end as another.

On the other side of this healing weekend, we emerge clear, grounded, and ignited. Feeling totally nourished from our time spent with like minded souls, and our nurturing of this profound & inextricable relationship we each have to the Earth.

Our Extended Team

None of this could take place without the vision, dedication and hardwork of Jud and Anne Carleton, pictured here with their family + the evanhealy team.

It's a supreme blessing and honor to be able to share these magical waters with you.

From the soil, through the steam, to your skin. HydroSoul.

Certified Organic. Hand harvested. Artisan Distilled in Alembic Copper by a small group of family farmers + distillers along the Columbia River Valley in Northeastern Washington State.

For all skin - especially sensitive, irritated and sun damaged.

Fresh herbal fragrance with honey-like sweetness.

Calms redness and soothes sensitive skin.

For all skin - especially dry, oily, combination and teen.

Features a soft and delicate rosy-leaf fragrance.

Gentle and slightly astringent.

For all skin — especially blemish, teen and impure.

Sweet and refreshing notes of lemon.

Minimizes appearance of pores, absorbs excess oil, hydrates, tones and enlivens.

For all skin — a vitalizing and energetic hydrosol.

Spicy and sweet, slightly clove-like fragrance; stimulating & awakening.

