YA-LING
LIMITED EDITION

Hand lacquering is an art that has been at the center of Asian culture for thousands of years. Skilled artisans use natural lacquers that have been combined with genuine gold and silver powders to create functional objects that are also beautiful works of art. The extraordinary Ya-Ling capless roller is limited to just 518 numbered pieces worldwide. Each hand painted piece is trimmed with premium rhodium accents and presented in a beautifully lacquered wooden box, befitting this rare collectable pen. Definitely proving...

Life is too short to carry an Ugly Pen!TM

Cherry Blossom VRR-1631

Cioppino

This spectacular creation combines an extraordinary finish and unbelievable value to create a rare beauty. The genuine seashell barrels are made in stages to transform the rough seashell pieces into a perfectly fitted piece that radiates color and iridescence.

They say money doesn't grow on trees, but it can always be in your pocket with Tornado Bill! This limited production Tornado is adorned with authentic US currency. Rollerball VRR-1603

Collectors around the world have coveted stamps since they were first introduced over a century ago. These small pieces of art remind us of not only events and historical figures, but also celebrated places and times. There is no telling where these stamps have traveled, but we know that with each letter came a message. Each canceled stamp is placed carefully on the barrel and then covered with high gloss lacquer ensuring a luxurious feel and everlasting beauty.

RADIO ONE

Once called the Material of a Thousand Uses, phenolic resins from the 1920s, 30s and 40s are once again popular. It was inexpensive and so versatile that it became a popular substance of the depression era in the United States. Shortly after World War II, the invention of injection-molded plastics took the place of Bakelite's difficult and expensive heat and pressure manufacturing processes, and the era was over.

Bakelite® is one of several brand names of phenolic resin. The black Radio One is produced from authentic Bakelite, whereas the Butterscotch and Blue are of equally luxurious phenolic resins. Heat resistance, strength, and durability are just a few characteristics that make phenolic resin such an exotic material. Its most striking attributes are the vibrancy and range of colors achieved only with this medium. Over time, the colors will deepen and become more lustrous.

Radio One is styled after the Art Deco period with its geometric lines and curved excellence. No expense was spared in the electronics of this piece. The Radio One boasts a tuner with AFC and tone control, excellent antenna properties, and a speaker sound that will blow you away. A wonderful combination of classic design and new technology, the Radio One is a piece to hand down for generations.

Bakelite® is a registered trademark of Bakelite AG
