Each Smithsonian twist-top rollerball pen has the Smithsonian logo engraved on the top ring and sun logo on the top disc. A serial number is engraved as well on the top ring and each pen is packaged in a commemorative tube.

The Corona pen has a deeply etched barrel reminiscent of the ornamental bronze-colored metal lattice that covers the outside of the National Museum of African American History and Culture building in Washington D.C.

Amelia Earhart set two of her many aviation records in this bright red Lockheed 5B Vega that is in the permanent collection of the National Air and Space Museum. The Vega pen has "rivets" acid-etched into the metal barrel with bright red lacquer finish and then top printed with the Vega's original golden pin stripes.

National Museum of Natural History's Dino Fossil pen is acid-etched with several dinosaur bones so you can actually feel them. The barrel and trim are plated in antique copper to give it an earthy feel and then the dinosaurs are top printed to highlight the unearthed bones.

The Smithsonian name and logo are registered trademarks of the Smithsonian Institution.
