

Herder on the Orient Express

While taking a well-earned break on the Orient Express, our intrepid explorer Teresa Trayals has found herself in the middle of a police investigation! Someone has smuggled a herd of sheep onto the train, and detectives need our help to identify the secret shepherd. A diary found among the sheep is believed to belong to the culprit. Read the entries from the trip so far and work out the missing word from each. Then, remove all the letters of this word from the letter grid. You'll have seven letters remaining. Rearrange them to reveal a vital piece of evidence which will identify the culprit from the seven possible suspects pictured on the train. Good luck, Detectives.

HINT: You'll need to use Google Maps for this one, but you don't need Street View to solve the clues.

Stop 1 - Paris

I enjoyed my visit to the Arc de Triomphe today. I especially liked counting the number of avenues radiating from it. There were _____.

Stop 2 - Strasbourg

From Ponts Couverts, I looked SW to admire a marvellous old structure going across the water. I learned the 2nd word of its name: _____.

Stop 3 - Munich

After enjoying the sights of Karlsplatz, I took a stroll along Neuhauser and Kaufinger Streets to reach another 'platz'. It was called _____ platz.

Stop 4 - Vienna

After exploring The Hofburg, I wandered across Burggarten to view a collection. The first name made me think of an old friend from school; _____.

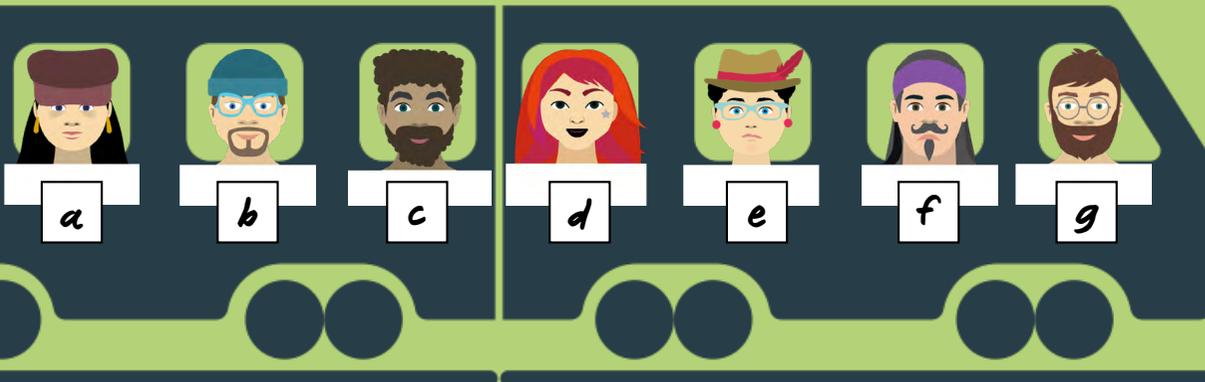

Stop 5 - Budapest

I'd read about 'Shoes on the Danube Bank' before, so was thrilled that I got to see them. I then took the nearest street heading east: _____ St. (or u.).

Stop 6 - Bucharest

Bucharest has the same feature that I visited in Paris! From here, I took the main road east. The next roundabout was named after someone with the surname _____.

The Suspects:

The Letter Grid:

T	H	V	M	V	N	L
T	F	E	A	A	A	G
U	E	H	O	U	E	L
A	Z	L	R	W	T	I
E	L	E	I	A	B	N
R	I	N	E	D	A	E

The Culprit:

