Helping teachers meet pupils at their level

The Muzo Floor Learning Range makes new ways of teaching and learning possible. By meeting pupils at floor level, teachers can build trust and a sense of mutuality with children, which reduces stress and anxiety in the pupils, encouraging expression of natural creativity and problem solving.

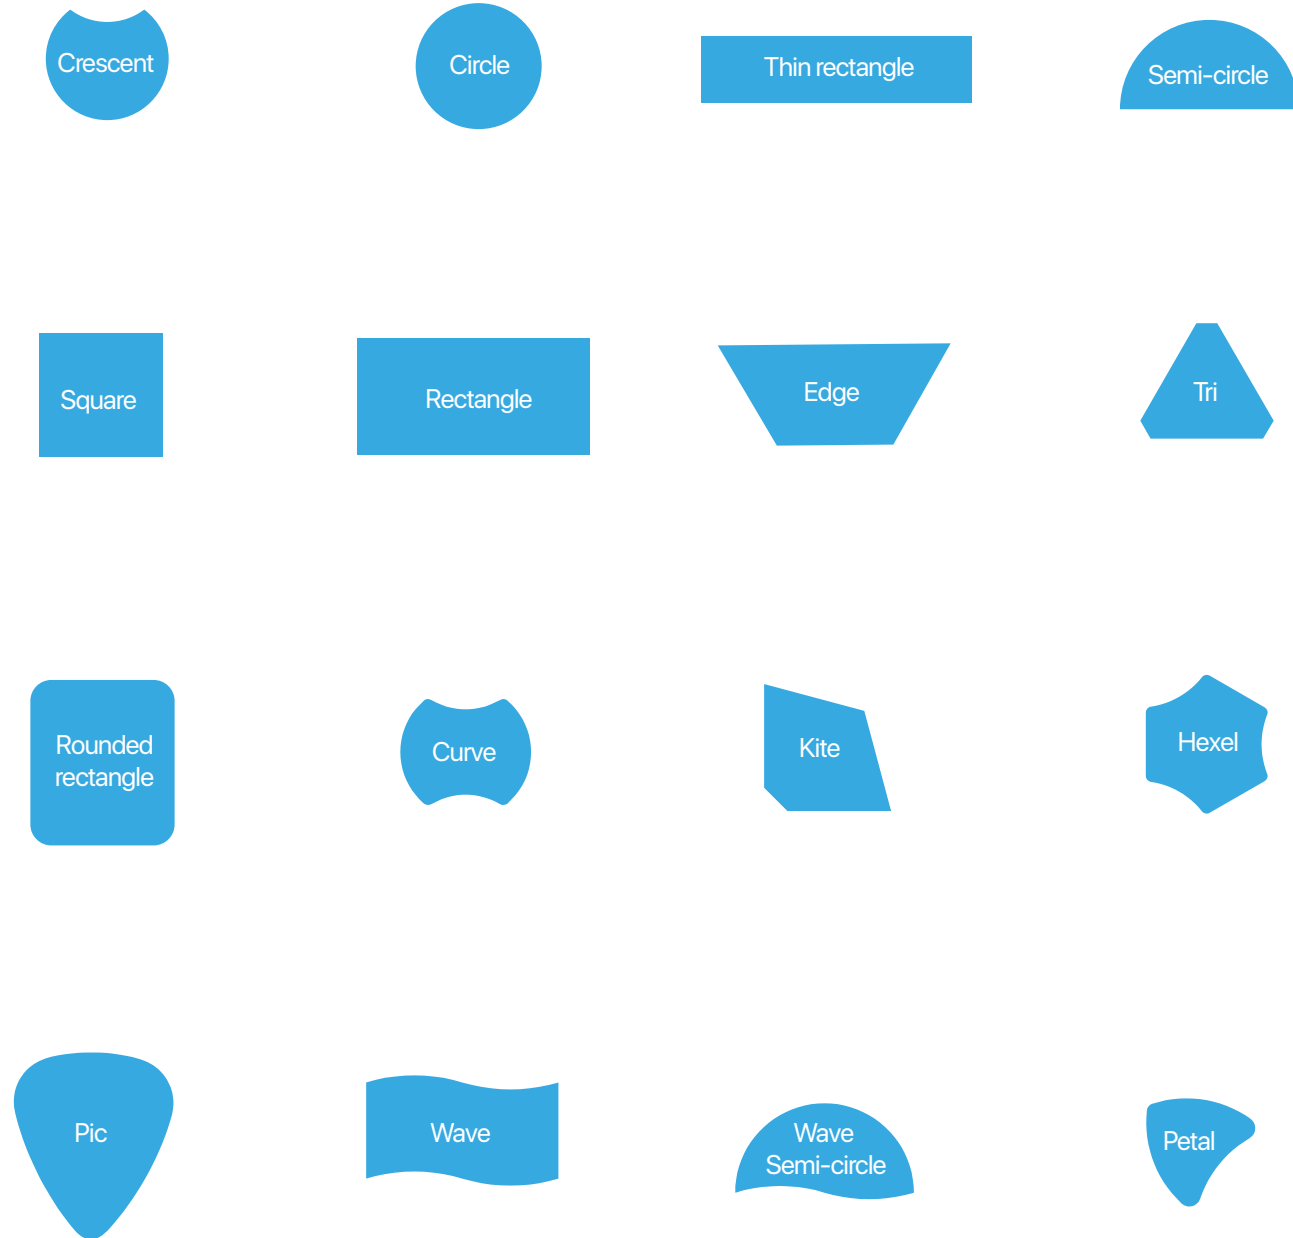

Different backgrounds, common goals

Having flexibility in the classroom is equally as important as air quality, light and temperature in assisting with healthy learning. The variety of table heights and layouts makes it possible to cater to differing needs of children, encouraging them to share, learn and achieve together in unique ways.
