After yesterday's discussion on breast implants and a visit from a plastic surgeon to "The View", Sherri Shepherd decided to fulfill her lifelong wish of having a butt lift.

But, as Sherri has a young son to provide for, a mortgage to pay, and a gas tank to fill, she opted not for the expensive Beverly Hills treatment but for cheap butt implants known as "booty poppers."

"I paid, like, twenty dollars for this booty," Sherri said.

Watch as she shakes her newfound booty, which Elisabeth assures, based on a squeeze test, feels good:
