The Fitzroy Program is a complete P-6 phonic literacy resource. Nine sets of ten sequential readers form the core of the program. The accompanying Word Skills workbooks provide activities that focus on each new sound and/or digraph introduced in the readers, as well as spelling, grammar, comprehension and creative English exercises.

Please note that the Fitzroy Readers also gradually introduce the 50+ most common ‘special words’ (non-phonetic). Some phonic words are called special words when first encountered, but become sounding words later when a reader has been devoted to their digraph.

The Fitzroy Readers were created by Faye Berryman and Philip O’Carroll for use in the classrooms of Fitzroy Community School, founded by the pair in 1976 in Melbourne’s inner north. In addition to the readers, the Fitzroy Program now comprises fully integrated workbooks, software, audio materials and educational games. The resources are used in thousands of schools and other educational settings in Australia, and around the world.
