

How to Encourage Your Fussy Dog to Eat

1 Add yummy bits to your dog's meals to make things more interesting - liver treats, a sprinkle of parmesan cheese, a little bit of butter, bacon bits; all of these will do the trick. Just a tiny amount makes a big difference.

2 Alternate with wet casserole type foods and less moisture-dense foods, e.g. a yummy stir fry, to mix things up.

3 Roast vegetables like pumpkin, sweet potato, carrots, parsnip are super sweet and delicious and may appeal to more fussy pups.

4 Try noodles instead of rice, risoni instead of pasta, quinoa, millet, mashed potato, oats etc, for a little change in texture.

5 Serving different proteins is also important as each has different amino acids, so beef, pork, chicken, lamb, turkey, fish, eggs, dairy. Adding liver, like chicken livers, to the dish can also make for a very compelling meal and is good for them too.

6 Try to have some variety in how your dog's food is prepared, like mince versus rare beef, meatballs instead of just mince...you get the idea!

7 Bringing the meal to room temperature if it has been in the fridge enhances the aroma and teases the taste buds. Just pop it in the microwave for 30 seconds and you're away - but make sure there are no hotspots for your pup to burn their tongues on.
