The Love Letters of a Portugeuese Nun

Gabriel Joseph de Lavergne

The Love Letters comprise of five love letters written by a Portuguese nun cloistered in the Franciscan convent of Beja to a French officer who went to Portugal to support the Portuguese in their war of independence against the Spanish and had loved her and left her. The letters showcase a remarkable depth of psychological insight into the inner workings of a woman in love, bearing witness to a gradual yet pivotal development of self-awareness and an elegantly controlled depiction of passion.

This edition includes an introduction by Josephine Lazarus.

Prince Madog

Joan Dane

A classic retelling of the legend of Prince Madog, the Welsh Prince who discovered the New World in 1170, three-hundred years before Columbus.

Includes the original illustrations by A.S. Boyd.

JOAN DANE is a clever anagram of the widely used placeholder name, Jane Doe. It is believed that Joan Dane is the pen name of Edwardian writer Mary Stuart Boyd (née Kirkwood).

The Green Graves of Balgowrie

Jane Helen Findlater

Set in the 18th century, sisters Henrietta and Lucie live with their widowed mother in an isolated mansion in Balgowrie, Scotland. Inexperienced in life and love, the two sisters get separated from each other and their quiet lives.

JANE HELEN FINDLATER (1866–1946) was a celebrated novelist and short-story writer, sometimes in collaboration with her elder sister Mary. Her first novel, The Green Graves of Balgowrie (1896), was a great success. She became known for her authentic portrayals of rural life in Scotland, and was admired by contemporaries such as Rudyard Kipling and Virginia Woolf. Her work has subsequently gone out of print and fallen into relative obscurity.

At the Edge of the Night Friedo Lampe

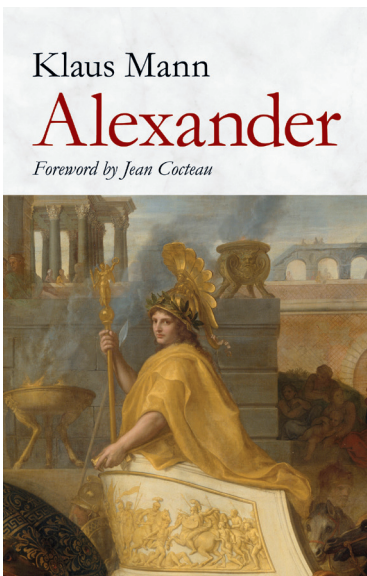

ISBN (PB): 978-1843916543

Date of Publication: 1/02/2019

Price: £8.99

Pages: 144

Banned by the Nazis, this haunting novel by a gay German writer in the 1930s is a rare early work of magic realism. This poignant novel, beautifully translated by Simon Beattie, was, in Lampe's words, born into a regime where it could not breathe; he hoped that one day it might rise again. Its depiction of raw reality was unacceptable to the Nazis: the book was seized by them in December 1933 and withdrawn from sale.

Alexander Klaus Mann

ISBN (PB): 978-1843916512

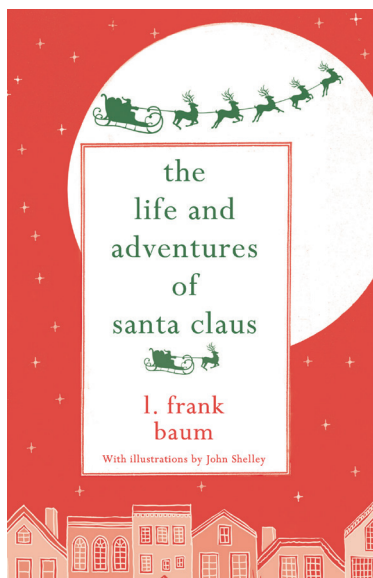

Date of Publication: 26/08/2016

Price: £8.99

Pages: 224

This historical fantasy, written by the son of the well-known German novelist Thomas Mann, takes Alexander the Great for its subject, looking at his life and career, and examining his obsession with conquest and supremacy, regardless of its effects on his friends and lovers. A novel that also explores Klaus Mann's ambiguous sexuality, it was written in 1920s Germany in the aftermath of World War I and can be viewed as a fascinating study of power with highly political connotations.
