You lucky thing!

You have the MOST excellent friends

You have a gift from Bookishly on the way to you.

Your loved one knew you would want to support small businesses, and they knew that you wouldn't mind if your gift arrives a little bit later than planned because our hard working postal workers are fighting for their pay, conditions, and the future of the Royal Mail.

You can read more about how to support the striking postal workers on our blog:
bookishly.com/standbyyourpost

Thank you for 'shopping small' and helping our business survive and thrive.

