

TRAINING INFORMATION

Dangerous Goods by Air Awareness

An email will be forwarded to you with a link for the training. Simply click on the appropriate link and follow the instructions.

A toll-free number will be supplied, but it is strongly advised that you use a headset and speakers for the training.

A copy of the workbook will be made available for downloading and it is a requirement that you have a copy available when you join the training sessions. You may print the workbook as many times as you prefer.

On completion of each session, we will be completing your workbook and your instructor will be displaying their workbook on screen showing the answers that you should have inserted. There will be time allowed for open discussion with your instructor regarding questions and answers and further clarification should you experience any difficulty in understanding any elements of the training that has been covered. Remember, this training is LIVE, you may ask questions at any time during the training.

On completion of the training you will be asked to complete the test and answer 20 questions on-line.

WHAT YOU WILL NEED FOR YOUR TRAINING:

Students are required to supply their own copy of the IATA - Dangerous Goods Regulations 2018 - 59th Edition. For your convenience we have provided links to some of the sources for these on our Resources page.

We provide student workbooks and worksheets, as well as exams and assessments.

As this is LIVE ONLINE training, you will also require

- internet connection
- photo ID (needs to be scanned and emailed to us prior to training, and to be physically shown online on examination day)
- EITHER desktop computer + webcam + microphone + headset (or computer + webcam + phone line to call free number)
- OR laptop + webcam + microphone + headset (or laptop + webcam + phone line to call free number)
