Accessibility Recommendations

In order to make your gameplay experience the best it can be, we've outlined some recommendations to help optimize your game for players with disabilities and/or access needs.

Hosted Gameplay Variant

If you're playing with multiple players with diverse access needs, we recommend playing with a "Host" to help review and curate Challenges on the fly. The Host does not participate in the Challenge, but rather reviews the Challenge silently prior to setup, and may choose to privately check with the Challenger to see if they are comfortable with specific aspects of the Challenge without spoiling the full Challenge (e.g., "Do you feel comfortable throwing and catching?").

You can either designate a player to act as the Host for the entire game, or have players take turns as Host each round. If there are any Challenges that make the Challenger (or any other player) uncomfortable, skip it and draw a new one.

Customized Challenge Card Decks

If you or others in your play group have specific access needs, we recommend removing Challenge Cards from your deck that require abilities that your players may have difficulty with.
