When judging the French Bulldog, what do you absolutely not tolerate?

I absolutely do NOT tolerate: Bad ear placement and bad fronts. For me, it is very important to show the intelligence and power of the breed.

What do you feel are strongest attributes in frenchies in different regions?

In North America: The angulation of the hindquarters and Showmanship.

In Europe: the Head-pieces and the ears.

What I have seen from the dogs in South America is the heavy bone, which I like.

Asia is still coming at this moment and works very perfectly with the best lines of the whole world; they show me that they are very clever and they know exactly the details of the different bloodlines.

Victor with World CH Colonel Trusardi De La Parure

Let's talk about coat colors and patterns.

For you, what importance is it for a pied French Bulldog to have a clean coat free of ticking?

Does the size of the Black Masked Fawn mask matter? Would you show a good pied specimen if they were a "half hooded pied"?

Regarding Pies, I only like to put up the top quality: clean coats free of ticking.

The size of the black mask does not matter for me.

And yes, I would show a "half hooded" Pied. A great example is the bitch who was two times World Champion: BONBONNIERE BLANCHE DE LA PARURE, who had one of her eyes not completely pigmented. However, she was very close to the standard.

Do you believe that in the future there will be more of a correlation between all the French Bulldog standards worldwide? Do you see Creams and American Fawns ever being accepted in Europe?

That will be very difficult to happen with creams, because in my opinion, FCI would never accept a brown nose, brown eyerims etc.

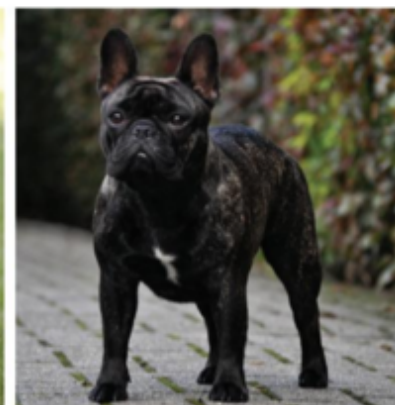

What show do you aspire to judge next?

I have been invited to judge several Shows in the future, I am very glad that I was invited to judge and give a seminar about French Bulldogs at the 75th Anniversary Show of The Kennel Club of Uruguay in November 2013.

I have also been invited to judge French Bulldogs at Crufts 2016.

Being that it is a dwarf breed and our gene pool is so small, what emphasis do you feel health testing plays in our breed?

I think that the organs for breathing are very important for our breed. We must fight against respiratory problems when this appears in our breed.

(1) Victor and his grandsons; (2) MULTI CH & WORLD WINNER 99 ULAN DE LA PARURE; (3) MULTI CH JARRETTELLE DE LA PARURE

Where do you feel as breeders we should focus most of our energy in breeding today? Better heads? Improved shape? More bone?

For me, the most important is that the Frenchie should be in the first place: A HEALTHY, SOUND, AND GOOD BALANCED DOG.

What is a fault or area of opportunity that you feel is difficult to correct or get rid of when breeding?

In Europe, we see many French Bulldogs that lack good angulation of the hindquarters.

If you had a chance to suggest something to be changed or added to the French Bulldog FCI standard, what would it be?

NO, I completely agree with the current FCI standard.

“ I DO NOT TOLERATE BAD EAR PLACEMENT AND BAD FRONTS. ”

A few years ago, you started to focus more on the judging aspect of the breed, and your son Dimitry, together with his wife Chantal have had more of a presence as De La Parure. How involved are you and Riki when choosing your breedings and future puppies for show? Or have you "passed the De La Parure Torch"?

No. We are still advising the breedings and the selection of the puppies. But nowadays, there are 4 sets of opinions and we, as elderly breeders, also still learn from the young ones.

Playing Chess in the French Bulldog breed is not always easy. The most important thing is to be honest and critical to yourself and to your own frenchies.
