★★★★★ Great on the Camino, Couldn't Ask for Better!!

October 26, 2013

Reviewer: Dale M from Bristol, IL United States

Got two pair of these for wife and myself to walk the Camino de Compostela in northern Spain through the mountains, meseta, dry and rain - lots of uphill & downhill. These were lifesavers! We used the multi-tips and they still have about 80% of the rubber after 400+ miles (650 kilometers) over all sorts of rocks, asphalt, gravel, dirt. Loved the flip lock feature for quick changes in length and storage in our backpacks. It is very easy to increase the tension by turning the lock one or two times if they loosen and start to slip. Poles are very substantial - no bending and we put them through the paces in the mountains. I've seen others selling for 3 times the price - these are just awesome and great quality & price even if not on sale!

★★★★☆ Made it Right

Went up Mt. Washington in NH this past summer and had one pole that didn't make it back down the mountain and bent under a little pressure on the way down. The other pole was fine and very helpful for the rest of the trek back down, easy to use, and well made for the cost. Company originally had some trouble with my claim but has since fixed their website and made it right by replacing my pole, so no complaints.

★★★★★ They Look Great

Haven't tried them yet but they look very well-made and easy to adjust...we bought them to use on a trip to Antarctica!

★★★★★ PaceMaker Expedition Poles

Reviewer: Brian S from Pittsburgh, PA United States

I put these guys through 30 miles of hills and hollows in Pennsylvania and I will say they performed better than expected. Can't see why people flock to the other brands when a pair of these, for a 6'2" 250lb guy, works like a dream.

Shipped promptly. Used it for hiking the "W". Lightweight and convenient to use. Better than much higher priced brands like Black Diamond.

★★★★★ Aerostrides

These are very light and sturdy poles and the price is great. Used these to climb Half Dome 8/20/13

★★★★☆ Aerostride Nordic Trekking Poles

Reviewer: John D. from GREENVILLE, PA United States

I have not used the trekking poles, but will many times this spring and summer. Look to be just what I want for hiking. The price is right, so I bought pairs for my wife and I. We are in our 70's, but enjoy hiking the National Parks. The company service is excellent, if you have a problem.

★★★★★ Great Pair of Pacemaker

The only problem is it took very long to get to me but other than that, I am very satisfied with the quality of the pacemaker.
