Instructions for Use

Connecting Your Freshkeeper® Bottleguard to the Oliso® PRO™ Smart Vacuum Sealer

1. Firmly insert your Freshkeeper® into your uncorked bottle.
2. Connect one end of the Flexi Tube to the Flexi Tube Accessory Port on the Oliso® PRO™ Smart Vacuum Sealer.
3. Connect the other Flexi Tube end to the allotted hole in the Freshkeeper®. Make sure you see the green light on the Flexi Tube Accessory Port button — the light informs you that the Flexi Tube is firmly connected in the Oliso® PRO™ Smart Vacuum Sealer.
4. Press the button on the Flexi Tube Accessory Port. The Oliso® PRO™ Smart Vacuum Sealer will immediately begin vacuuming on its own.
5. The Freshkeeper® has an indicator that shows you whether the vacuum is still holding or not. The indicator is a round, orange flexible membrane. When the Freshkeeper® is at its original, un-vacuumed state, the indicator is popped up. When the flexible membrane caves in, then your Freshkeeper® has been completely sealed.

6. When you have finished sealing, remove the Flexi Tube from your Freshkeeper® and Oliso® PRO™ Smart Vacuum Sealer.
7. Place the newly sealed bottle, with the Freshkeeper®, upright in the refrigerator or in your cabinet.

8. Check your bottle after every few days. If the indicator is popped out, then it is time to reseal your Freshkeeper®. If it is still caved in, then your Freshkeeper® is still fresh. The length of time your wine or olive oil will stay fresh is dependent on many organic factors directly related to the fruit and how it was processed. Vacuum sealing wines, vinegars and olive oils is not an indefinite or permanent seal no matter the method. It is wise to consume them within a reasonable period of time.

Care and Maintenance

How to Store Bottles Once They've Been Sealed

We recommend storing your sealed bottles upright either in the refrigerator or storage cabinet because the air is evacuated and you are no longer using a traditional cork to seal the bottle.

How to Clean Freshkeepers®

To clean your Freshkeeper®, simply remove the Freshkeeper® from the bottle and hand-wash with water and soap.

Do NOT place your Freshkeeper® in the dishwasher.

Please never place the bottleguard in the microwave.

Its internal metal parts are not microwave safe.
